OUR WASHINGTON DISPATCHES.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, April 3.

THE LOAN.

Of the thirty-four millions of dollars offered to the Government in the bids opened at the Treasury Department yesterday, only three millions ninety-nine thousand were accepted, all bids lower than ninety-four being rejected. The number of bids for this loan is unprecedented in the history of the Department. They ranged from eighty-five to par.

Notwithstanding the number of bids and the pressure of business on the Department, which keeps Secretary CHASE and his Assistant Secretary occupied until a late hour every evening, the entire correspondence with all parties relative to this loan, was completed and mailed last night before the Secretary left his office.

A portion of the new Stock has already been issued. This result is most creditable to the Department, and constitutes striking evidence of a marked improvement in its administration since the 4th of March. Promptness, decision and efficiency have thoroughly supplanted procrastination, timidity and shiftlessness. It was a bold and judicious stroke of policy on Mr. CHASE'S part to refuse to award more of the loan than was offered to be taken at fair rates. He has administered a a rebuke to the combination of bidders, which must show them that they overshot their mark, and he has, by this one act, advanced the public credit and greatly promoted public confidence. He says he expects capitalists to bid for the Government loan as an investment, and not toy with it as fancy stock.

The wisdom of his decision is already vindicated by numerous telegraphic dispatches from rejected bidders offering to take the unawarded stock at higher figures, and it is at this hour apparent that any amount of loan securities might now be disposed of at a handsome advance upon ninety-four. It was time that speculators upon the necessities of the Government should receive a rebuke Of course the Secretary has no power to accept these telegraphic offers, nor will he readvertise the loan. The presumption is that he will avail himself of his power and issue treasury notes for the balance of the eight millions required.

THE ADVANCE OF GEN. AMPUDIA.

The news received here this morning of the advance of three thousand Mexicans upon Brownsville, Texas, created quite a sensation in the White House circle and on the streets. It has been corroborated by several dispatches, but is still discredited by officials here. Such enterprise on the part of the Mexicans in the present condition of the Mexican Government seems too romantic and incredible for truth. Some account for it by the desire of JUAREZ that secession shall fail and our Government be sustained, and that such a blow as Gen. AMPUDIA proposes to strike would prove vexatious in the extreme to DAVIS and the Texas Secessionists; also by the fear on the part of the Mexicans that the Confederate States will attempt to acquire Mexico if they establish their independence.

IMPORTANT CABINET MEETING.

The Cabinet officers were called together this morning, and had a two hours' session, during which Gen. SCOTT was sent for. Of course outsiders can only conjecture the subject under discussion. The general impression prevails that it related to dispatches of more than usual importance received from the South. The rumor is very rife that it has been decided to reinforce Fort Sumpter. I mention it only to suggest that if true the secret would not be disclosed.

After the Cabinet meeting, the Secretary of the Navy had a long interview with Commodore PAULDING, which, together with the fact that his messenger was noticed going to the telegraph office, gave rise to the report that general orders had been telegraphed to all Southern naval stations to immediately fit out every vessel at command. There is nothing whatever in the report, as I learn on undeniable authority.

THE POLICY OF THE GOVERNMENT.

It seems to be well understood that the Administration will very soon be prepared to disclose in detail the policy upon which it intends to conduct the Government. Republican leaders in the North complain that the party is suffering because of inaction on this point, but wisdom requires the maturest consideration before the decision of the question on which the destinies of the country hang, and the friends of the Administration may well be patient.

A member of the Cabinet stated to-day that national affairs, in his opinion, were rapidly approaching the culminating point, and the suspense would soon be over. He continues firm in the anticipation of an amicable adjustment.

AN EXAGGERATED STORY.

The story relative to the interference with a Virginia Mail-agent has been much exaggerated. He was at the Department to-day, and has been assured by the authorities and Union men of Virginia that he shall not be interrupted. It is the settled determination of Mr. BLAIR to discontinue the mail service wherever there is any continued violent interruption.

MILITARY.

Capt. BURTON has been ordered from Fortress Monroe to take command of the forts in San Francisco harbor. He is sent thither in consequence of his intimate knowledge of the country there and of the movements of the Secessionists.

It is stated that Ex-Senator SLIDELL is in California doing all the mischief he can, and is endeavoring to provoke the secession sentiment into vigorous life. If so he will fail signally. It is possible that Col. GATES, who was ordered to California, will not go at present, as he was by mistake ordered to report to an inferior officer.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The President dines a party of gentlemen to-morrow, including the British Legation and Mr. RUSSELL, of the London Times.

Hon. LANSING STOUT, of Oregon, was married to-night, at Baltimore, to Miss SUE PLOWDEN, of Maryland.

There was a brilliant wedding also to-night at the Washington Navy-yard. The daughter of Commander BUCHANAN was united to Capt. MAYER, of the Army. The President's family was present.

Senator HARRIS expects to leave for home to-morrow morning.

The President, to-day, refused to talk about office with anybody who called out of hours.

DISPATCH TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, April 3.

Contrary to the expectation of bidders, the Secretary of the Treasury has decided to-day to accept no offer below ninety-four for the eight million loan. The amount, therefore, determined upon is only about $3,100,000.

The decision of the Secretary of the Treasury in rejecting all bids for the loan under ninety-four, has caused great disappointment among bidders. They allege the advertisement gave no such direction. Had the whole $8,000,000 been awarded the average would have been 93½. The Secretary has concluded to issue Treasury notes for the remaining five millions.

Mr. ELA, of the Treasury Department, has gone to Mobile on Government financial business.

The President has appointed CHARLES GIBSON, of Mississippi, Solicitor of the Court of Claims, in place of R. GILLETT, of New-York, and JOHN E. MCPHERSON, Assistant Solicitor.

Minister CORWIN has been tendered the Sloop-of-War Cumberland, now fitting out at Norfolk, to take him to Mexico. It is expected that he will leave on the 15th inst. Should that vessel not then be ready he may be conveyed thither in the steamer Powhatan. Sir CHARLES WYKE, British Minister, will arrive in Mexico about the 1st of May.

The Mexican question receives special consideration by the Administration, and an immediate treaty with that Government is one of the objects of the mission.

The Spanish fleet which was to have been sent to the Gulf of Mexico, will be delayed until further instructions can be received from Madrid.

Minister CLAY was, on Monday, disconnected from the Peruvian mission, as the Government evidently disapproves of the course of the preceding Administration, which suspended diplomatic relations between the two countries. The indications are that these will, at no distant day, be resumed.

It is ascertained that the French Consuls in the Confederate States have received instructions direct from France, instead of through the Resident Minister here, in relation to the facilitation of Southern commerce with that Empire.

Although no official notification of the coming of French and English fleets has been received here, gentlemen in prominent positions are satisfied that their movements are in close connection with the observation of Southern political events.

The continued presence of Maj. BEN. MCCULLOUGH in Richmond, Va., viewed in connection with the call for a Secession Convention there on the 16th inst., excites much interest in Washington, especially in Army circles.

There appears to have been a mistake in the cast of Federal officers at Portland, Me.; Jedediah Jewett, and not Willis, is designated for Collector of that city; Andrew Cole for Postmaster, and C. G. Talbot for Surveyor. In addition to the above, it is reported that Roland Fisher is to be Collector at Bath; James A. Bicknell, Postmaster at Augusta; John Berry, Postmaster at Gardiner; C. R. McFerran, Postmaster at Waterville, and Thomas Hovey, Postmaster at Hallowell.

Alexander S. Patterson has been appointed Naval storekeeper at Key West, and Logan Hurst to a similar position at the Norfolk Navy yard.

Wm. Cuddy has been appointed Surveyor-General for Illinois and Missouri; Clinton C. Hutchinson, Agent for the Sac and Fox Indians; Wm. H. Bigelow and James P. Eddie, Receiver at the Land Office at Sioux City; Charles B. Richards, Register, and Charles Pomeroy, Receiver at Fort Dodge, Iowa; Frank Street, Register, and D. C. Bloomer, Receiver at Council Bluffs, Iowa; Stewart Goodsell, Register, and John G. Weeks, Receiver at Fort Des Moines, Iowa.

The following named Postmasters have been appointed: George B. Kellogg, at Brattleboro, and James G. French, at Montpelier, Vt.; Chas. Nichols at St. Paul, and David Heaton at St. Anthony, Minn.; James L. Camp at Dixon, Illinois; Caleb S. Clay, at Kingston, N. Y.

OUR WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENCE.

PECULIARITIES OF SOUTHERN LAW—THE CHARLESTON MERCURY AND RECONSTRUCTION—VANITY OF THE SECESSIONISTS—THE HERALD HARLEQUIN—MISSISSIPPI REPUDIATION—ENGLAND AND FRANCE, &C.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, April 2, 1861.

It is by a funny, rather than an ingenious fiction of the English Common Law, that a crime committed at sea, or in one of the distant possessions, may be tried at Guildhall. If my memory serves me, the form of indictment used in such cases recites that A. B. did feloniously, and with malice prepense, in and upon, &c., in the balliwick of Middlesex, viz.: at Bombay, in India, &c., &c. I am reminded of this old English method of stretching the jurisdiction of the Nisi Prius Court by the stories which come to us from Dixey Land, of the summary punishments inflicted in the Lynch Courts, upon what are termed Abolitionists. A Northern man, or perhaps a Southern man, who has not fallen in love with treason, has declared his attachmant to the old Union; immediately the Lynch Courts resolve that he must be hanged or drowned, and to put the affair upon indubitable grounds of justice, the victim is called an Abolitionist, and charged with stealing cattle or burning houses. The following is a case in point: Among the recent Texan items, it is recorded on the authority of the Columbia Democrat, of the 19th ult., that "a man named GARDNER was killed in Hamilton County last week by a party of citizens for expressing Abolition sentiments, and stealing cattle."

Those who are not entirely satisfied with the verdict of death when based upon the first charge, surrender their scruples when the last is brought into view. It is well known that to be an "Abolitionist" in the Southern sense of the term, is a crime of doubtful nature, but to steal cattle is something tangible.

The Charleston Mercury is nervously apprehensive lest all the fruits of secession may be lost by the admission of the poor unfortunate Free States into the Southern Alliance. The silly conceit seems to be really entertained that first the States of the Northwest, and then New-York and Pennsylvania, will soon be knocking at the doors of the Confederate State Government for admission. A large preponderance of the people of those States really desire reannexation, but, with characteristic egotism, they put this flattering disguise upon their secret longings, by supposing that the Free States will follow them. The Mercury and the South Carolinians, on the contrary, are for secession per se, finally and forever, and it is with gloomy forebodings that they hear the idea of "reconstruction" suggested. It seems, according to the revelations recently given in the Mercury, that quite a struggle was made in the Montgomery Congress, or Convention, on this question, and that the reconstructionists, who insisted upon leaving the door open for the admission of Free States, carried the day! Never was there a more fruitless and bootless controversy. An ounce of common sense would have dispelled this illusion of the Slavery propagandists that the Free States, or any one of them, would ever think of quitting the Union formed by WASHINGTON, FRANKLIN, JEFFERSON, HAMILTON, ADAMS and MADISON, on the noble and generous basis of liberty, for the sake of joining the vile conspiracy of JEFF. DAVIS, TOOMBS, KEITT and SLIDELL against freedom and civilization. Nothing but the infatuation of ignorance, pride and malice could ever have generated the peurile conceit.

I know that this ridiculous vanity in the Secessionists has been artfully stimulated by the Herald and other abetters of treason in the Free States, with the hungry hordes of Democratic spoilsmen at their backs. This class of men in the Free States is just numerous enough to sustain such a journal, edited by an unnaturalized foreigner, unscrupulous in character, and the enemy of the country in which he has grown rich by pandering to its basest passions; but it is not sufficiently formidable to move any one Free State from its firm allegiance to liberty and the Constitution. The Charleston Mercury ought to see this, and rest satisfied that the Union will never be "reconstructed," except by the repentance of the Seceders, or their expulsion from power by the people whom they have deluded or overawed. But the despotism which has reigned in South Carolina and the Gulf States admits of nothing like free discussion. Whatever is said in praise of Slavery, and in asserting its invincible power, must not be questioned; and the result is a degree of ignorance as to the relative position of the South in the Union, and a vanity and arrogance which can only be paralleled in China.

It is believed that, among the demands to be made upon the Confederate States by the Governments of England and France, will be the resumption of payment of the repudiated bonds of the State of Mississippi, amounting to fifteen millions of dollars, with interest for twenty years past. Principal and interest, the aggregate, to be funded, will sum up about thirty millions. If I am not mistaken, Alabama also repudiated, or failed to pay, and that some compromise or settlement was agreed upon, far short of a redemption of her liabilities at par. JOHN BULL is principally interested in these little pecuniary matters, but the French were also sufferers, and the opportunity is now favorable for these great Powers to exact the uttermost farthing of their dues.

The London Times had already drawn attention to this subject of repudiation at the latest dates, and called attention to the fact that the President of the Confederate States was himself the leader of the repudiators. It scouts the idea of lending more money to such a State, and it will not be long before we shall see it demanding payment of the almost forgotten bonds, with interest from date. I well remember that the English journals discussed the expediency of enforcing payment at the time the swindle was avowed by the State authorities, but the idea was abandoned from a consciousness that it could not be carried into execution without a war with the United States. This difficulty will be removed if secession shall be consummated. This Government, in that event, will be highly gratified at any embarrassment which may overtake the rebels; and even now, while secession is in embryo, no offence would be taken by the Government of the Union, at any humiliating exactions which may be made upon the rebel Government.

It is also believed that, should the fleets of France and England, which are coming over, presume upon the weakness of the Cotton Confederacy, and take unwonted liberties in the Gulf of Mexico, the matter will be viewed with the utmost complacency by the Government of Mr. LINCOLN, so long as the rebel organization is tolerated by the people of the South. Whenever they think proper to break up the treasonable combination, they will find the "powers that be" in Washington ready to repel insult and to resist encroachment, but not before. It will not be surprising if the Governments of those countries demand of the Montgomery authorities suitable cessions of ground at Pensacola, the Balize and Tampa, for naval stations; and if they succeed in securing an acknowledgment of their independence by this Government, they will have no alternative but to submit to these demands. The Confederates have only seen the beginning of sorrows. OBSERVER.

INTERESTING FROM PENSACOLA.

CONDITION OF AFFAIRS ON SHIP AND SHORE.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

UNITED STATES FRIGATE SABINE,
OFF PENSACOLA BAR,
Monday, March 25, 1861.

An opportunity offers once more to let you know how things look down this way during these troublesome times.

About ten days ago Maj.-Gen. BRAGG (who is in command at this place) saw fit to stop all communication betwen us and the shore, and Capt. O'HARRA, of Fort McRea, sent us word that if the Wyandotte did not keep a little further off he would fire into her. Capt. ADAMS, wishing to avoid a collision with these fools, keeps himself and us on board ship. Our supplies have been cut off from Mobile, and the New-Orleans steamer, in passing in and out of the harbor, avoid our boarding boat, so you see we are hard up for news of any kind.

Capt. ADAMS addressed a letter to WELLES, Secretary of the Treasury, last Tuesday, and in it told him that starvation stared us in the face, and unless we heard from him or received relief in ten days from date, he would use his own discretion about leaving this place. We are all on half rations. We have plenty of money, but of what use is that to us now. Three days ago we transferred from the Brooklyn to this ship 82 troops, and sent her to Key West and Havana for supplies.

We expect her back in a few days. In the meantime they may attack Fort Pickens, and we have got to wade through about 3,000 bayonets to reinforce the Fort, with masked batteries playing on us from all quarters, in conjunction with McRea and Barancas. Is it not a pleasant picture to look upon? You must know there is an armistice in existence between BRAGG and ADAMS. BRAGG will not attack Pickens unless we attempt to reinforce it. We see troops going in nearly every day from New Orleans, Mobile and other places, and can see them at work erecting sand-bag batteries, &c., and here we are cooped up like a lot of chickens, waiting for the Administration to do something. They have neglected us shamefully at Washington. They do not answer our communications. They do not send us anything to eat, and yet expect a ship like ours, which has been out over her time, with a broken-down and worn-out crew, and an old tub like the St. Louis, to do all their fighting in Southern waters, while vessels not yet three months in commission are rolling in clover off New-York Battery. Everybody in our ship is disheartened, and no wonder. You do not know one-tenth part of what we have suffered lately. They say the darkest hour of the night is just before the break of day; it is pitch dark with us just about this time.

Three nights ago we heard the booming of cannon, and saw lights passing and repassing on shore. We beat to quarters, called "All hands out boats," mustered our companies, and were all ready to go over the side, when the little Wyandotte came steaming out to let us know it was a false alarm. If I live a hundred years I shall never forget the feelings I had when I was loading my revolvers. We were all busy with our own thoughts, I can assure you, and for about ten minutes hardly anything was heard save the tick, tick, of a Colt, or the dull thud of a rifle ramrod. We did all our little valuables up, and directed them each with a letter for our friends at home, in case anything disagreeable might happen to us while attempting to reach the Fort.

We have on board now nearly 600 men, with grub enough to last about ten or twelve days longer. We have about thirty days' water on board. We bought most of that here before communication was stopped, at the rate of six cents per gallon. All our fish lines are in requisition every day, but sometimes the fish [illegible]. We heard a rumor lately that Fort Sumpter had been evacuated, and that Pickens was soon to follow, but don't believe it. We will hear all the news when the Brooklyn comes back, and until that time have got to remain in this miserable state of suspense.

P. S.—The people on shore here, when they haul down their flags at sunset, play "God Save the Queen." What do you think of that?

DEATH OF CAPT. BERRYMAN.

PENSACOLA, Fla., Wednesday, April 3.

Capt. BERRYMAN, commanding the Wyandotte, died yesterday of brain fever.

THE NOTE OF PREPARATION.

IMPORTANT MILITARY AND NAVAL NEWS.

It is impossible to conceive, without witnessing it, the extraordinary change which twelve hours can make in the aspect of military and naval affairs at the New-York station. On Monday last, everything was dull and uninteresting on Governor's Island, at Fort Hamilton, on Bedloe's Island, and at the Brooklyn Navy-yard. Yesterday there was intense excitement apparent in all these places.

On Monday, orders were received from Washington to fit out the United States brig-of-war Perry for sea at once. The authorities immediately had her hauled alongside the wharf, but operations had hardly commenced when the order was countermanded.

The Powhatan was then to be put out of commission immediately, and her crew temporarily transferred to the receiving-ship North Carolina. This was no sooner done than they were ordered to Norfolk, for the steam-frigate Merrimac, it is presumed. And on Tuesday, to the astonishment of every one, the Powhatan, notwithstanding the unfavorable report of the engineers, was ordered to be equipped for a new commission, with all the expedition at the command of Commodore BREESE.

On Governor's Island, too, indications are apparent that troops are about to leave, but there is no such thing as obtaining particulars. The regular avenues through which Army and Navy movements are received, are impeded by authority, and nothing can be known until orders begin to be openly executed.

The work on the different vessels at Brooklyn has been rendered more active; and the splendid steam-frigate Minnesota, which returned rotten from China last year, and was subsequently put in a state of readiness, is to be got in condition to receive her crew without delay.

The Minnesota is one of the splendid steam-frigates of forty guns rate, that were constructed some years ago. They comprise the Niagara, Wabash, Roanoke, Colorado and Minnesota. The Niagara is homeward bound from Japan, the Merrimack preparing slowly for sea at Norfolk, the Wabash and Roanoke at Brooklyn, both slowly approaching completion, and the Minnesota at Boston. The latter is 3,200 tons burden, and was built at Washington in 1853, and has only made the one cruise alluded to. She will require nearly 500 men, who will be concentrated in a few days from the different receiving ships. The Mississippi steamer, also at Boston, is approaching readiness for commission, and will probably be ordered to sea in a short time.

Below the surface of the rumors that attribute these warlike preparations to the progress of domestic events, is a somewhat well founded rumor that they have reference to the interference of Spain in Central America, and that a formidable military and naval force will be again dispatched there.

The commander-in-chief of the home fleet, Commodore PRENDERGAST, who is now at Norfolk, in the leaky corvette Cumberland, received important dispatches from the leading officers of the Army and Navy, now in Washington, who have been called temporarily to their respective Departments, to facilitate the proper administration of affairs.

It is said that orders were received yesterday at the head-quarters of the Army in this city, directing the immediate filling up of the short companies that arrived here from Texas, in the Daniel Webster, to their full fighting strength. Accordingly batches of the most efficient recruits were told off last evening at Fort Columbus, and are probably part of the Fort Hamilton garrison this morning.

The United States storeship Release hauled out from the dock at the Navy-yard, and went down the bay. She may go to sea to-day. Her officers are: Lieut.-Commanding JAS. M. FARLEY, Lieut. JAS. M. BRADFORD, Master BYRON WILSON, Captain's Clerk WM. P. BLAGONE. The Release goes to Florida.

We are again requested to contradict the report printed in the Herald yesterday, to the effect that the Wabash is ordered for sea, and the Powhatan's crew had been put on board again. These canards embarrass the authorities.

THE RHODE ISLAND ELECTION.

RE-ELECTION OF GOV. SPRAGUE.

PROVIDENCE, Wednesday, April 3.

SPRAGUE is reëlected Governor by about 1,800 majority.

SHEFFIELD, conservative Republican, who opposed ROBINSON, present Republican member of Congress, succeeds by about 500.

BROWNE, conservative Republican, is elected by about 1,200.

The successful candidates were all committed to the support of the President's Inaugural.

PROVIDENCE, Wednesday, April 3.

The election, to-day, resulted in the defeat of the Radical Republicans. Gov. SPRAGUE is reëlected by a large majority, and the Legislature is strongly of the same political complexion.

Messrs. SHEFFIELD and BROWNE, conservative Republicans, have defeated the late Republican members of Congress from this State.

CONNECTICUT ELECTION.

HARTFORD, Wednesday, April 3.

WOODRUFF, Democrat, is elected to Congress in the Fourth District, by eighty majority.

IMPORTANT FROM NEW-ORLEANS.

NEW-ORLEANS, Wednesday, April 3.

The report that the Brooklyn had reinforced Fort Pickens by landing troops is incorrect. Supplies only were landed.

The Present attitude of the Government at Washington is regarded as a truce, any violation of which would cause immediate hostilities.

The tariff of the Confederate States on Northern manufactures is already found to be inconveniently high by Southern merchants, and it will be reduced at the next Congress.

IMPORTANT FROM TEXAS.

GALVESTON, Wednesday, April 3.

Gov. HOUSTON had sent a message to the Legislature protesting against the Convention, appealing to the Legislature to sustain him, and claiming still to be Governor. The Legislature took not the slightest notice of it.

SOUTH CAROLINA STATE CONVENTION.

CHARLESTON, Wednesday, April 3.

The Convention is in secret session discussing the new Constitution, which will doubtless be ratified on Wednesday by a large majority.

CHARLESTON, Wednesday, April 3—P. M.

The South Carolina State Convention, to-day, by a vote of 149 to 29, ratified the Constitution of the Confederate States. A number will change their votes to-morrow, when the minority will be reduced to 10 or 12.

THE VIRGINIA STATE CONVENTION.

RICHMOND, Wednesday, April 3.

The Virginia State Convention reassembled to-day.

Mr. SCOTT, of Fauquier, made a speech, expressing the utter hopelessness of the North giving sufficient guarantees to the South by constitutional amendments. He urged a Border State Conference to secure a united withdrawal hereafter, with a view to future reconstruction.

Mr. RICHARDSON, of Hanover, followed, urging immediate secession.

FROM THE STATE CAPITAL.

The Legislative Bribery Case—Sale of Quarantine Lands—Repeal of City Railroad Grants—Insolvent Debtors not Absolved—Pawnbroking on the Rise—Executive Session—New Bank Superintendent.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ALBANY, Wednesday, April 3, 1861.

The case of JAY GIBBONS underwent another postponement last night. The alleged cause was the death of MITCHELL SANFORD, Esq., and the want of sufficient time for new counsel to prepare themselves. There was much hesitation among some of the members about further postponement, but sympathy prevailed, and the case was postponed until this evening. The other party to the negotiation, and for whose benefit the proposed law was to be enacted, has not yet been brought before the House. It is most likely he is holding himself subject to the call of the House whenever they may want him.

As soon as the House was ready for business this morning, Mr. ROBINSON moved to lay all the intervening orders of business, down to motions and resolutions, upon the table, for the purpose of moving to take from the table the motion to reconsider the vote had on the 2d day of March last, directing the Standing Committee on the incorporation of cities and villages to report, for the consideration of the House, without further delay, the six several bills referred to said Committee on the 10th day of January last, for the repeal of certain Railroad grants in the City of New-York, passed April 16, 1860.

The question was taken on the resolution, and lost—not two-thirds, as follows:

YEAS—Messrs. L. C. Andrus, W. Andrus, Anthony, Bailey, Baldwin, Barber, Benedict, Benton, Bingham, Carter, Catlin, Chapman, Collin, Doolittle, Dutcher, Emerick, Farnum, Field, Fisher, Fullerton, Gardner, Hyatt, Hyland, Johnson, Kenyon, Kernan, Kinney, Lambrecht, Loughram, McDermott, May, Morgan, Norton, Philbrick, Pierce, Provost, Randall, Richardson, Roberts, Robinson, Salisbury, Saxe, Scovell, H. Smith, J. Smith, Summer, Taber, Townsend, Turner, Tuthill, Varian, Wager, Webster, Wells, Wheeler, Wiard, Wright.—57.

NAYS—Messrs. Angel, Arcularius, Ball, Barnes, Bergen, Brewster, Buckbee, Burt, Callahan, Davis, Faxon, Ferrey, Ferris, Finch, Hardy, L'Amoreaux, S. E. Lewis, Lord, McFadden, Mekeel, Montague, Moore, Myres, Nesbit, Sanford, Sherwood, Shull, S. E. Smith Speaker, Walsh, Waterbury, Watson, Woodruff, Young.—35.

A large number of petitions and remonstrances were presented this morning; some against the repeal of the Sunday laws, some against the Broadway Railroad, several against the act for relief of insolvent debtors, and several for amendment of the usury laws.

The Senate bill for the sale of the land at Quarantine on Staten Island, was reported from the Committee of Ways and Means, with some amendments, the most material of which are as follows: No sick shall hereafter be landed at Castleton; the Floating Hospital to be used in place and stead of the Hospital at Quarantine; it is made discretionary with the Commissioners of Emigration whether or not the boarding-officer shall keep an office at Castleton, and fixing the Quarantine anchorage below the Narrows, thus virtually removing Quarantine from its old station at Castleton. These amendments were made at the instance of Mr. ELLINGWOOD, and will, without doubt, meet with general concurrence.

The bill for the relief of insolvent debtors being up for its final passage, Mr. KERNAN moved to recommit, with instructions to strike out the enacting clause, which was debated by himself and Messrs. ROBINSON and FISH for the motion, and Messrs. BINGHAM and FERREY against. The main point discussed was the constitutionality of the bill, but nothing was presented that was not brought out in the discussion of some days past. The vote was then taken on the motion by ayes and noes, and lost. Ayes 52, noes 58. The vote was then taken on the bill, which was also lost—Ayes 58, Noes 52. A motion to reconsider was made and laid on the table, to be called up as soon as the remaining seven votes for the bill can be secured.

In Senate, this morning, Mr. CONNOLLY introduced a "big thing" in the pawnbroking line. The fact is, judging from several things that are and have been before the Legislature, pawnbroking is looking up. The Loaners' Association and this present bill, and one or two other things, are destined to make it quite respectable. As Mr. HUTCHINGS intimated, when on the Loaners' Association bill, they are going to drive Chatham-street out of the business, or take the business out of Chatham-street.

Mr. CONNOLLY'S bill is for the incorporation of the Citizens' Guarantee and Safe Deposit and Advance Association of the City of New-York. The incorporators are JAMES HARPER, NATH. W. BURTIS, B. F. JONES, HENRY S. WILSON, AUGUST BELMONT, ANDRE FROMENT, FRANK W. BULLARD and JOHN H. WHITE. Its objects are defined to be: The guaranteeing of the payments, punctual performance, or collection of promissory notes, bills of exchange, contracts, bonds, accounts, claims, choses in action, evidences and certificates of property or value, upon such terms as may be provided by the By-Laws of the Association. Also, receiving upon deposit, for safe keeping, jewelry, plate, stocks or bonds, evidences of debt, merchandise or other property, and advancing moneys upon such deposited property at a rate not exceeding 15 per cent. on sums of $500 or less, 12 per cent. on sums between five hundred and one thousand, and 10 per cent. on all sums above $1,000.

The general office of the Company will be in New-York City, but it may establish branches or agencies elsewhere, may purchase and hold real estate necessary for its business, or that may come into its hands by purchase to secure debts owing to it. And may also sell at public or private sale, as may be a matter of contract, any property that may have been on deposit for three months after the expiration of the time for repayment of any moneys that may have been advanced on the same.

The balance of the moneys received at any such sale, after paying the amount advanced, interest and costs, shall be retained one year for the benefit of the depositor or his legal representatives; at the expiration of which period, if unreclaimed, it shall be paid into a fund called the Profit and Loss fund. From this fund any loss that may accrue to the Association from the depreciation of value in any property deposited shall be first made up, and the balance, at the end of the year, shall be appropriated to such objects of benevolence as the By-laws may direct.

The capital of the Company is not more than one million of dollars, and it may go into operation as soon as fifty thousand is subscribed, and twenty-five thousand paid in.

There are various rumors afloat about the doings in Executive session to-day. One story in relation to the Port Wardens, and the most reliable, is that BRAMHALL is reappointed, and the others in suspense.

H. H. VAN DYKE is appointed Superintendent of the Banking Department, in place of JAMES M. COOK, resigned.

The number of acts signed by the Governor to this date is one hundred and nineteen, of which very few are of either general or local importance. The following are the most important:

To incorporate the Vassar Female College.
For the relief of the suffering people of Kansas.
To aid the Government of the United States to obtain a loan of money on its bonds.
To create a Board of Commissioners of Appeals of the New-York Fire Department.
The annual appropriation for the Canal debt and maintaining the Canals.
Incorporating the University of Brooklyn.
Amending the act relative to the government and management of the Central Park.
In relation to Inland Insurance Companies.
Granting certain privileges to the Long Island Southside Railroad Company.
Giving the consent of the State to the purchase, by the General Government, of a site for a Post-office in New-York.

NEW-YORK STATE LEGISLATURE.

SENATE.

ALBANY, Wednesday, April 3.

A communication was presented from Mr. KENNEDY, Superintendent of the Census, submitting the population of the State by counties, for the purpose of apportionment. Ordered to be printed forthwith, and referred to a Select Committee.

Mr. CONNOLLY introduced a bill to incorporate the Citizens Guarantee and Advance Association of New-York. The bill authorizes the guaranteeing of the payment, the punctual performance in collection of promissory notes, bills of exchange, contracts, accounts, or any other evidences of debt or trust; also allows the storage of jewelry, plate, stocks, bonds, and all property, and the advance of money thereon at fifteen per cent. interest for sums under $500, and twelve per cent. on sums over that amount and under $1,000, and ten per cent. above $1,000. The bill gives power to hold real estate for offices, and to establish head and branch offices.

The Senate then took up the Annual Appropriation bill as the special order, and considered it until the hour for going into Executive Session.

In Executive Session the name of HENRY H. VAN DYCK was sent in as Superintendent of the Banking Department, in place of JAMES M. COOK, who, it is understood, retires. The nomination created much excitement, and was referred to a Select Committee.

ASSEMBLY.

ALBANY, Wednesday, April 3.

Immediately after the reading of the Journal, Mr. ROBINSON moved to lay all intervening business on the table down to motions and resolutions, for the purpose of moving to take up the resolution requiring the Committee on Cities and Villages to report for the consideration of the House, without further delay, the six several bills repealing the grants of City railroads of last year. The motion was lost by 57 to 39.

Among the petitions were several against a Broadway railroad and in favor of modification of the Usury laws.

Several bills were reported favorably from Committees, among others for the sale of the Quarantine lands on Staten Island. To establish a State fund for the benefit and relief of the Stockbridge Indians.

The bill to allow insurance companies to change the dates of the termination of their fiscal year in certain cases, was ordered to a third reading.

Also the bill reorganizing and regulating the Common Schools of Brooklyn.

The bill to protect the Croton Aqueduct from injury during the progress of work on the completion or repairs came down from the Senate with amendments. On motion of Mr. WOODRUFF, the House concurred in the Senate amendments, and the bill now goes to the Governor.

The bill to amend the one third act by requiring the consent of one-sixth of the creditors to enable a debtor to avail himself of the benefits of the insolvent act, came up for a third reading.

Mr. KERNAN moved to recommit with instructions to strike out the enacting clause, and argued strongly against the retrospective feature of the bill as unconstitutional, inasmuch as it impairs obligations of existing contracts, and against the clause which allows assignments to preferred creditors.

Mr. ROBINSON also argued against the constitutionality of the bill, and Messrs. PIERCE, BINGHAM and FERRY in its favor. The motion to strike out the enacting clause was lost, by 52 to 58. The bill was then read a third time, and lost, by 55 Ayes to 58 Nays.

Mr. BIRDSALL moved to reconsider the vote and to lay that motion on the table, Carried.

EVENING SESSION.

The session being set apart for the hearing of the case of JAY GIBBONS, member of the First Assembly District of Albany County, Hon. T. C. CALLICOT, of Kings, appeared as counsel, and argued the case on behalf of Mr. GIBBONS, taking ground: First—That the House had no constitutional power to expel a member; and, second, that if it had, the proof was not sufficient to warrant such expulsion. Mr. CALLICOT made an able argument for his client, but the claim that the Legislature had no right of expulsion was incontestibly refuted by the arguments of Messrs. KERNAN and PIERCE. The debate was conducted with much feeling, and lasted until nearly 11 o'clock.

Mr. FISH offered a substitute severely reprimanding the member, which was lost by 15 to 87.

The resolution expelling JAY GIBBONS was then adopted, by Ayes [illegible], Noes, 8.

The House then adjourned without transacting further business.

Resignation of the Bank Superintendent.

BANK DEPARTMENT, ALBANY, March 19, 1861.

To Gov. E. D. Morgan, Albany:

DEAR SIR—Having, for seven consecutive years, held State offices, to the duties of which my almost undivided attention has been given, I have been compelled, during that long period of time, to neglect my private business affairs. Justice to myself constrains me to devote some time and attention to my personal interests. I, therefore, resign the office of Superintendent of the Banking Department of this State, to take effect on the first of April next.

Yours truly, JAS. M. COOK.

Washington's Birthday in Turkey.

CELEBRATION OF THE ANNIVERSARY BY THE UNITED STATES MINISTER.

A correspondent, writing from Constantinople under date of Feb. 27, gives an account of the manner in which WASHINGTON'S Birthday was celebrated in that city. Such of the American residents, or sojourners, as chose to do so, accepted invitations to call on Col. JAMES WILLIAMS, the United States Minister, during the day, and in the evening that gentleman held a reception, at which the Diplomatic Corps and other functionaries were present, while Mrs. WILLIAMS gave her friends a soirée. The residence of Col. WILLIAMS was beautifully illuminated with colored lamps, and inside the building the Stars and Stripes were profusely displayed, while the likeness of WASHINGTON, wreathed in evergreens, occupied a prominent position in the central saloon.

Col. WILLIAMS received his guests with characteristic cordiality and urbanity. Prominent among them were the Marquis DE LAVALETTE, the French Ambassador; Prince LOBANOW, the Russian Envoy; Count DE GOLTZ, Minister Plenipotentiary of Prussia; Count LUDOLPH, of the Russian Legation; the Belgian Minister, Chevalier KERR, representing the King of Holland. A large number of Turkish dignitaries, among them VELY PACHA, Ottoman Ambassador to Paris, MUSTAPHA PACHA, the Rear Admiral, were also present.

Dancing was of course the first thing in the programme of the evening, Mrs. WILLIAMS opening the first quadrille. When the guests had become wearied they retired to the refreshment room, where all the delicacies of the season were bountifully provided. These disposed of, toasts were in order. Col. WILLIAMS first gave—"The Memory of WASHINGTON," prefacing it with a few appropriate and feeling remarks, and then the health of Col. WILLIAMS himself and of "American Ladies" was cordially pledged. Dancing was then resumed, and concluded a fête universally acknowledged to have been the most brilliant which had been given in Constantinople during the Winter.

WEDNESDAY, April 2—P. M.

It is announced this afternoon by telegraph from Washington that the Government has accepted only $3,100,000 on the 6 ⅌ cent. Stock bid for yesterday, declining all offers below 94 ⅌ cent. This decision awards to

Bank of Commerce, New-York.....	$2,500,000
Bank of America, New-York.....	250,000
J. W. Woolcot, Boston.....	100,000
Other parties, in small sums.....	250,000
Total.....	$3,100,000

This decision, if made official, is not only right in itself, as consistent with the plenary discretion left with the President of the United States and Secretary of the Treasury, under the recent Act of March 2, applicable to all the negotiations of the Government, but it is consistent with the repeated intimations through the Press, that unless the bids for a Funded Stock should be fully up to a fair market value of this security, the Secretary would and ought to fall back upon his alternative of convertible Treasury paper at par. The disappointment expressed by the unsuccessful bidders on the Street to-day is not therefore the fault of the Secretary or of the public Press. The provisions of the recent Act of Congress, placing the decision between a Funded Stock and Treasury paper in the wise discretion of the Administration, was sufficiently advertised ten days or two weeks before the bidding, and the fact that the Department was offered the money on the latter, abundantly notified to the whole public, including, of course, those very sagacious gentlemen on Wall-street who undertook to make up round robins, without regard to these facts, and on the self-assurance that Mr. CHASE would have to take the Money on a Funded Stock upon their terms and no other, and that they knew he would do so rather than issue Treasury paper. It certainly argues well for the new administration of the Department that the Secretary has thus saved to the Government a heavy loss in the way of discount upon this Stock, while he has at command another security, temporary in its nature to be sure, but not more so than, we hope, the present troubles of the country will prove, which can be placed at par, and more widely distributed than any other class of public debt. The fact that while asking for $8,000,000, he has accepted only $3,000,000, is regarded on the Street as significant that the Administration contemplate no measures of a war-like or expensive nature, calculated to make the Government credit less valuable in the open market some months hence than at present.

The announcement that only $3,000,000 of the Federal Loan has been awarded, and nine-tenths of this to two of the richest Banks in the City, (the Bank of Commerce as well as America bidding on their own account, and in no combination,) has suddenly changed the impression that a better demand would be found for Money, temporarily, after the award. There are no applications to lenders on this account to-day, and none likely to occur if the private dispatches in regard to the Secretary's determination are officially confirmed. There is a further addition of $1,431,000 to the stock of Bullion reported to-day, $996,000 from California, delivered here, and $435,000 on the America from England, to come via Boston. The Discount market is easy, at 5@6 ⅌ cent. on strictly prime paper, and the same figures are current on temporary Loans. The Foreign Exchanges, since the Boston mail of yesterday, are dull, at 108@108½ on London.

The Stock Exchange to-day shows a weaker feeling in the speculative Railway shares, while State Securities are steady, and Government Stock firmer, the latter closing, however, rather easier to the buyer than the best sales of the day. The price of the registered Stock of 1881 is equal to 95¼@95½ ⅌ cent. and interest. The cause of the heavy feeling in the Railway shares and in the general market is ascribed in part to the unsettled nature and conflicting opinions of the policy of the Administration toward the Gulf States, and the many dispatches of a sensation character which are constantly appearing in the daily Press. While these influences withhold a vigorous support from the market, they are not sufficiently trusted by the Bears to induce a very decided movement in the opposite direction, and thus prices are kept within a limited range of fluctuation from day to day, while the temper of the market is called weak. The following extract from a letter received from a high financial authority in London should set right the rumors heretofore referred to in regard to the credit of Messrs. OVEREND, GURNEY & Co.:

> "We have reason to believe that the rumors respecting this house, which found their way into your newspapers, emanated from parties here who were disappointed in getting their paper discounted, and took this means of revenging themselves.
>
> These rumors formed a subject of conversation in this city for a day or two, but so utterly groundless were they considered by ourselves, and others who had good means of knowing, that it did not even occur to us to mention them to you. And we may state that on the very day when the story was put in circulation we happened ourselves to negotiate a large amount with Messrs. OVEREND & Co.
>
> They are a house with whom we have had intimate connections for a long period, and we are in a position to give the most unqualified contradiction to the newspaper statement as to an application for assistance to the Bank of England, the fact being that on the very day when the application is said to have taken place, they had upwards of a million and a-half sterling out on call on the Stock Exchange upon Government 'Securities,' and idle at their Bankers."

COURT OF APPEALS.

Second Week—Wednesday's Minutes.

Before a full Bench—Comstock, C. J.

Nos. 36 and 37. Reserved specially for April 9, to stand at the head of the calendar for that day.

Nos. 22 and 23. Reserved generally, to be submitted on printed arguments.

No. 24. Zill, Administrator, vs. Hamilton.—Affirmed, upon opening argument of George Wadsworth for appellant, John H. Reynolds for respondent.

No. 8. Newland, Administrator, vs. The New-York Central Railroad Company.—Argued. Sidney F. Fairchild for appellant; Galusha Parsons for respondents.

No. 25. Matter of Estate of Bounoffe, &c. On argument.

The Result of an Appeal.

Elizabeth Gill, Administratrix, &c. vs. Elisha W. Ensign and J. H. Hamilton.—The plaintiff, as administratrix of her late husband, obtained a judgment for $177 60, interest and costs, against the defendants, for work and labor done. The defendants appealed, and finally to this Court, upon certain exceptions to the ruling of the Referee in the matter of the admission of evidence.

The appellant's case was elaborated before the Court, but counsel had no sooner closed his argument than the Court affirmed the judgment below, with ten per cent. damages, without hearing counsel for respondent at all.

George Wadsworth, for Appellant; John H. Reynolds, for respondent.

An Effort to Avoid a Verdict.

Frederica Newland, Administratrix, &c., Respondent, vs. The New-York Central Railroad Company, Appellants.—The plaintiff, as administratrix of her late husband, obtained a verdict for $1,000 against the defendants, for injuries to her husband causing his death, alleged to have been sustained in consequence of the negligence of the defendants' employes. The accident occurred in the village of Tonawanda, near Buffalo, and was occasioned by the deceased's horse running away, in conjunction with a neglect to stop a hand-car they were trundling on the part of the defendant's employes, they seeing the horse coming in time to have done so. A collision taking place, Newland was killed. The defendants, asserting that the verdict is "contrary to the weight of evidence," appealed, and now presented their case to this Court. Decision reserved.

C. Fairchild for appellant; Galusha Parsons for respondent.

Sale of Real Estate for Taxes—Whose Land May be Sold.

William Whitney et al., respondent vs. William G. Thomas, appellant.—In this case, land of the plaintiff, situated in the Eleventh Ward of the City of Buffalo, was sold for non-payment of taxes in 1853—the plaintiff, at the time, residing in this City.

The purchaser took a deed of the land from the State Comptroller, and subsequently conveyed the land to another party, who conveyed it to the defendant. In 1858 money was tendered for the redemption of the land, but without notice to the purchaser or possessor. Such a redemption the Court held to be invalid. The land had been assessed on account of a "taxable inhabitant," as appeared from the assessment roll. Land so assessed could not be sold for taxes, as the law provides only for the sale for taxes of land belonging to non-residents. The Court, upon these grounds, held that there never was a valid sale of the land by the State.

The defendant appealed to this Court, contending that there was a valid sale, and that he had good title under it. Decision reserved.

William H. Greene for appellants; George R. Babcock for respondents.

French Proceedings in Bankruptcy—Effect of the Concordat.

Matter of the Attachment against the Estate of Edward Bounoffe and August Bounoffe.—This case is familiar to the reader of the law reports of the TIMES, it having been several times stated at great length. The question involved is one of considerable commercial importance. The creditors of the firm of Bounoffe & Co., residing in France, and a few of those resident in this City and elsewhere, upon the failure of that firm, joined in a "concordat," or composition deed. The concordat is an agreement between debtor and creditors, by which the former agrees to surrender his assets and entire estate for the benefit of the latter, they agreeing to be satisfied therewith, and that he shall be discharged from any further liability to them on account of his indebtedness.

The only question, therefore, is, whether or not those joining in the proceedings in bankruptcy in the French Tribunal de Commerce, are entitled to claim a portion of the estate of the Bounoffes in the hands of trustees here? The trustees allowed each of the parties to the concordat to come in for an apportionment, charging them, however, with the amount already received under the "concordat." This was affirmed by our Supreme Court at General Term, Justice Bonney dissenting. The parties aggrieved thereby appeal to this Court, contending that they cannot be deprived of their claims against the estate here, having never compounded them by foreign creditors, who have already received a satisfactory amount, and settled their accounts with the non-resident defendants.

Decision reserved.

Spier & Nash, for appellants; Laroque & Barlow, for respondents.

Liability of the Corporation for the Condition of the Streets.

COMMON PLEAS—SPECIAL TERM.

Before Justice Hilton.

William Russell vs. The Mayor, &c, of New-York.—This case was stated in the TIMES of yesterday; but the following opinion of the Court will give a more correct idea of its merits than before appeared:

HILTON, J.—The defendants being a Municipal Corporation have assumed the duty, which the law imposes upon them, of keeping all the streets and highways opened within their limits for public use in such repair and condition that they may be safely traveled upon, and for any injuries resulting from a neglect of this duty they are liable. (Wallace vs. The Mayor of New-York; 2 Hilton, 440. Hutson vs. The Mayor; 5 Seld., 163. Conrad vs. The Village of Ithaca; 16 N. Y. R., 158.)

In this case the complaint alleges that the defendants "permitted and allowed a coal or vault hole in the sidewalk" of a public street of the City to be left in such a negligent and dangerous condition that the plaintiff, while carefully passing along the street, was precipitated into the hole, and thereby seriously injured. This was a sufficient averment of a cause of action, without alleging that the duty devolved upon the defendants of keeping the sidewalks in a suitable condition for traveling upon them.

Whether the plaintiff will be able to establish at the trial that the defendants have been neglectful of their duty, and that in consequence of such neglect an injury has resulted to him, cannot now be foreseen, (McGinity vs. The Mayor of New York, 5 Duer. 674,) nor can I assume that his complaint sets out all the facts upon which he means to rely to establish the defendant's liability, as they are preceded by the averment that they "permitted" a hole in the public street to be left in an open and dangerous condition, and by reason of which the plaintiff, without any fault on his part, was injured.

Judgment for plaintiff on the demurrer, with leave to the defendants to answer in twenty days, on payment of costs.

Discharge of a Pickpocket.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS.

Before Justice Leonard.

The People vs. Alfred Clegg.—The prisoner was charged with picking a gentleman's pocket of $1,700, but detained without a warrant at Head-quarters of the Police. Upon application to the Court, these facts appearing, he was, of course, set at liberty. Wm. F. Howe for petitioner.

Verdict in the Butcher Case.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT.

Before Justice Clerke.

Henry Myers vs. Culver & Hoffman.—This case has been on trial for several days, and was reported in full in the TIMES of March 28.

It was brought to recover on two promissory notes, and the defence was that the plaintiff was a member of the defendant's firm, and the notes were given merely as evidence of the plaintiff's interest in the firm. The jury now rendered a verdict for the sum of $6 527 61 for the plaintiff.

Beebe, Dean & Donohue, for plaintiff. P. G. Clark, for defendants.

Court of Oyer and Terminer.

WHERE DOES THE MONEY COME FROM..

In this Court, yesterday, before Judge INGRAHAM, the Grand Jury came in and reported that George Mountjoy, summoned before them as a witness, refused to answer the following Question—From whom, if any one, during the last three years, have you received money for the purpose of influencing action upon matters pending before the Common Council?

The Court decided that the question was a proper one and must be answered.

It was then read to the witness in open Court, and he was ordered to answer. He declined, however, on the ground that it would be "degrading" to himself. The Court therefore found him guilty of contempt, and ordered his commitment to the County Jail for thirty days—the whole extent to which the Court could sentence. The witness was then removed in custody of an Officer, and the Court adjourned.

Court of General Sessions.

THE ROAD TO PRISON.

In this Court yesterday, before Recorder HOFFMAN, Henry C. Wilson, indicted for forgery, pleaded guilty in the fourth degree, and was remanded for sentence.

FIRST OFFENCE LIGHTLY PUNISHED.

Bernard Russell, indicted for grand larceny, pleaded guilty of petty larceny, and it being his first offence, he was sent to the City Prison ten days.

ONE DAUGHTER ATTACKS AND ONE PROTECTS HER MOTHER.

Mary Trainor, indicted for receiving stolen goods, was then tried.

John M. Skott testified that he lived at No. 156 West Thirty-fourth-street. On the 4th of March last, as witness returned home he handed some money to his wife, telling her to put it in the usual place, where the money was kept, in an upper drawer of the bureau. On going to the drawer in question the money box was found to have been stolen. On the same afternoon the servant girl, Ellen Kehoe, had mysteriously disappeared. Besides money, the box contained other valuables, worth in all about $75. Subsequently the witness saw a part of the stolen property in the possession of officer McCord; a part also in the prisoner's house, and a part at a pawnbroker's.

Officer McCord testified to finding the articles at pawnbrokers, and also those at the prisoner's house.

Michael Keough testified that he was clerk in the pawn-broker's office where the things were found; the prisoner was the person who put them in pawn.

Mrs. Scott, wife of the first witness, corroborated his testimony.

Ellen Kehoe, daughter of the prisoner, testified that she lived as servant with the last witness; she took the articles already described, and carried them home to her mother, telling her where and how she obtained them; she went with her mother to put them in pawn. Witness stated that she had always been treated well by Mrs. Scott, and had now been forgiven and taken back by her.

For the defence Honora Kehoe, sister of the last witness, testified that when Ellen brought home the money she had said that it was her wages-money. In other respects the witness contradicted the statements of her sister.

Simon Donnolly and several other witnesses testified to the prisoner's good character.

The Jury then took the case, and rendered a verdict of acquittal, and the prisoner was discharged.

"ON THE TRACK," BUT SLOW.

William Eader, very black, indicted for grand larceny, was next put to the bar, the Jury having disagreed on a former trial. The complainant, fellow-descendant of Ham, swore that he went to a concert-saloon with a watch in his pocket; he sat beside the prisoner; in a few minutes he missed his watch, and communicated the fact to his friend, who here came upon the stand, and continued the narrative of events. After his friend, the complainant, had seated himself, the witness saw the prisoner putting the watch in his coat pocket. In a few minutes the complainant said, "I have lost my watch." "Keep still," said his friend, and I will put you on the track." But meantime the prisoner had taken the "inside track," and escaped. The witness had known the prisoner under the name of Johnson. The prisoner was subsequently arrested, but the watch was not found. The Jury took the case, and rendered a verdict of acquittal. The prisoner was, therefore, discharged.

The Court then adjourned to this morning, at 10 o'clock, when the following cases will be taken up.

POLICE REPORTS.

A SUDDEN TRANSITION FROM JOY TO GRIEF.

Hugh Appenheimer, a German, known to the police as a sneak thief, was successful on Monday afternoon in obtaining possession of $72, by entering Mr. Wm. Miltner's house, No. 64 First-avenue, with false keys, and robbing a bureau drawer. One of the neighbors happened to notice the rogue as he was leaving the house, and from her description of his appearance given to Officer Prout, of the Seventeenth Ward, after the robbery became known, the latter had no difficulty in arresting him. He was found with a number of his friends enjoying himself with cards and beer at a German saloon in Avenue C, and when taken into custody would scarcely believe that his late delinquency had brought him into trouble. A portion of the stolen money, amounting to $60, was found in the prisoner's possession, and the owner was enabled to identify some of it. Justice BRENNAN committed the accused to answer.

HEAVY THEFT BY A PICKPOCKET.

A pocketbook containing $3,820 was stolen yesterday from Mr. George G. Frisk, of Hadley, Hampshire County, Conn., who is a guest at the United States Hotel, Fulton street. Mr. Frisk left the hotel about noon to go up town, and at the corner of Fulton-street and Broadway he became the centre of a crowd by whom he was rudely jostled. A few moments afterwards he discovered his loss. A reward of $500 is offered for the return of the money.

PASSING COUNTERFEIT COINS.

Lorenza di Bella, an Italian, was, yesterday, arrested, at the Hone Restaurant, in Broadway, for passing counterfeit quarters. He had, it is alleged, passed several spurious coins at the same place on other occasions, but evaded arrest. His examination will take place to-morrow, before United States Commissioner CARROLL.

Coroners' Inquests.

A QUARREL AND FIGHT OVER A GAME OF CARDS—FATAL RESULT.

Coroner JACKMAN held an inquest yesterday, at the New-York Hospital, upon the body of a man named John Hopps, whose skull was fractured on the 19th inst. by a blow from a stick in the hands of a young man named Henry Rowland. The testimony was in substance as follows: Rowland and a colored man, Frederick Johnson by name, both of whom are employed at Schermerhorn's livery-stable, No. 172 Mercer-street, were amusing themselves on the afternoon of the 19th ult. by playing cards; while so employed, Hopps, the deceased, who acted as coachman for a gentleman whose horses were kept at the stable, went in and became a witness of the game; he was apparently somewhat intoxicated, and, looking over Johnsons hand, volunteered advice as to how the cards should be played, much to the annoyance of Rowland, who requested him to mind his own business and leave Johnson to act without assistance; Hopps thereupon became angry, and high words passed between the men, resulting in Rowland receiving a blow in the face from his opponent's fist; at this point other parties interposed and prevented further violence; Rowland then asked Hopps to leave him, but the latter again made an effort to renew the assault; having lost all patience, Rowland wrenched a stick from a bale of hay and struck Hopps upon the forehead with such force that he fell to the floor insensible; efforts were made to restore him to consciousness, but they failed, and he was removed to the Hospital, where, having languished until Tuesday night, death resulted. Rowland was not arrested at the time of the assault, as none who witnessed it would lodge a complaint against him. As soon, however, as the Police of the Fifteenth Ward heard of Hopps' death they took him into custody pending the result of the inquest. After hearing all the evidence in the case the jury were of opinion that "death was caused by a blow at the hands of the prisoner, HENRY ROWLAND, who had inflicted it under circumstances of great provocation." The accused was thereupon committed by the Coroner to await the action of the Grand Jury. HOPPS was a native of Cleveland, 28 years of age.

THE AFFRAY ON BOARD THE BARK ALMENA—DEATH OF THE SEAMAN POWELL.

Coroner JACKMAN held an inquest yesterday at the New-York Hospital, upon the body of SAMUEL POWELL, a sailor, who was fatally injured on the 28th ult. on board the bark Almena, at Greenpoint, L. I., by JOSEPH M. VAUGHAM, the first mate of the vessel. From the testimony of those who witnessed the affray, it appears that POWELL was partially intoxicated, and in that condition went on board the bark, where he treated VAUGHAM to a great deal of abuse, and afterwards commenced an assault upon him. The mate acted with great forbearance until the deceased struck him for the third time a very severe blow in the face, when he lost command of himself and knocked his assailant down with a hatchet which lay at hand. The blow was of sufficient force to fracture Powell's skull, although it at first was not suspected that the injury was of so severe a character, particularly as the wound did not incapacitate him from crossing the ferry and walking to the Hospital. The injury, however, was not long in assuming dangerous features, and yesterday morning it resulted in death. Vaughan has been in custody ever since the night of the affray, and was present at the inquest. In view of the evidence in the case the jury rendered a verdict declaring him to have been justified in the commission of the assault, and the Coroner at once discharged him from arrest. Deceased was a native of Ireland, about 25 years of age.

DEATH FROM A FALL.

An inquest was held yesterday by Coroner JACKMAN, at the house No. 38 Baxter-street, upon the body of Jeremiah Caffay, a native of Ireland, aged 27 years, who was fatally injured on Tuesday evening by falling down a flight of stairs. Dr. Christopher Weltje made a post-mortem examination of the case, finding that the fall had caused an extensive fracture of the man's skull. The jury returned a verdict of "death from injuries accidentally received."

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The news from Texas, published yesterday morning, created the greatest excitement in Washington, both in and out of Administration circles. What action will be taken by the Government, in relation to it, provided it proves to be correct—of which there is some doubt entertained—is of course unknown. The Cabinet were in session yesterday, and are supposed to have been engaged in discussing the condition of affairs in the South, and definitely shaping a policy to be pursued. Gen SCOTT was called before them, as were also other prominent military men, and rumors were afloat that the reinforcement of Fort Sumpter had been determined upon; but the Administration keeps its own counsels, and whatever is decided upon is not likely to be known in advance.

The Secretary of the Treasury decided, yesterday, to accept no offer below 94 for the Eight Million loan. Only about $3,100,000 is taken at this rate. Treasury notes will be issued for the rest. The bidders are of course greatly disappointed at the action of Mr. CHASE

The Rhode Island election, which took place yesterday, resulted in the reëlection of Mr. SPRAGUE as Governor, and the choice of Messrs. SHEFFIELD and BROWN, conservative Republicans, in place of the present Congressmen.

We publish this morning a letter written on board the frigate Sabine, stationed off Pensacola, which gives an insight into the condition of affairs at that point, both on ship and shore, on the 25th of March. At that time the vessels on that station were short of provisions, and the men on account of the apparent neglect of the authorities at Washington, were somewhat disheartened; but since then the supplies which have been dispatched from this port have doubtless reached their destination. The letter says nothing relative to the reinforcement of Fort Pickens, except to exhibit the difficulty of such an enterprise.

The greatest activity prevails at the Navy Yard and forts in our harbor. There are movements of troops, transfers of crews and speedy preparations on board of vessels-of-war, which seem to indicate that some movement of importance is on foot. Whether it relates to our domestic affairs or to the recent demonstrations on the part of Spain, is left to conjecture.

The South Carolina Convention, yesterday, after a spirited debate, accepted the new Constitution for the Confederate States by a large majority. It is understood that the Convention will adjourn again this week—probably sine die.

The steamship America, with advices from Europe three days later, reached Halifax yesterday morning. She left Liverpool on the 23d, and Queenstown on the 24th ult. She reports an advance in the Liverpool Cotton Market, with firmness at the close of advices, while Breadstuffs and Provisions continued quiet. Consols were quoted at 92⅛@92¼ for money, and 92⅛ for account. The French rate of discount had been reduced to 5 ℔ cent. The political intelligence by this arrival is not of striking importance. In the British Parliament, an inquiry relative to late events in the Ionian Islands elicited the explanation that two members of the Ionian Assembly had moved for a vote by universal suffrage on the question of annexation to Greece, with a view to consolidation against the Turks in Europe; and on a refusal to withdraw the motion as unconstitutional, the English Governor had prorogued the Assembly for six months. His action had been approved by the British Government. In answer to an inquiry whether any explanation had been demanded from France relative to the complicity of the French Minister to Mexico in the escape of MIRAMON, Lord JOHN RUSSELL stated that, in the absence of official dispatches on the subject, no action had been taken. In the French Corps Legislatif the Imperial Address had been passed without amendment, 213 to 13. An attempt was made to pass an amendment, asking for the recall of the French Army at Rome, but it failed by a very decided vote; and so far from recalling the army, it is stated to be the intention of the Government to augment it with 10,000 men—the object being to enable France to be ready for any Austrian demonstrations on the Po. The new Italian Minister had not been announced. Later advices from India state that the area of the famine was being extended. The steamship Kangaroo, from Liverpool on the 20th, and Queenstown on the 21st of March, arrived at this port late last night. Her advices are only one day later than were received by the New-York.

The steamship Northern Light, from Aspinwall, March 25, arrived at this port yesterday morning, bringing 200 passengers, and $999,446 on freight. Among the cabin passengers is Col. RUDLER, who, it will be recollected, was second in command to WALKER in his last ill-fated expedition to Central America, and who now returns to the United States with the full pardon of the Government of Honduras. There is no news of special importance from Central America. Matters in New-Granada remain very much as reported by the previous arrival. The exact position of the belligerents is still in doubt. A rumor was current in Nicaragua that a party of filibusters had arrived from New-Orleans and effected a landing, but the rumor was not credited by the Government. From Ecuador, we learn of a proposal, made last year by GARCIA MORENO, the President, to transfer the country to France. Extracts from letters written by him are given in our compilation of news. The intelligence from California is, of course, anticipated by the Pony Express.

A bill was introduced, yesterday, in the New-York State Senate, incorporating the Citizens' Guarantee and Advance Association of New-York. The Association undertakes to guarantee the payment of all sorts of claims. The Annual Appropriation bill was considered in Committee of the Whole, and amended by appropriating $65,000 to various charitable institutions. In Executive session the name of HENRY H. VAN DYCK was sent in for Superintendent of the Banking Department, in place of JAS. M. COOK. In the Assembly an effort to take up the resolution requiring the Committee on Cities and Villages to report the six bills repealing the grants of City Railroads, last year, failed. Several petitions against a Broadway Railroad and in favor of modification of the usury laws were presented. Among the bills reported favorably was one providing for the sale of the Quarantine lands on Staten Island. The bill reorganizing and regulating the Common Schools of Brooklyn was ordered to a third reading. The bill to protect the Croton Aqueduct from injury, as amended by the Senate, was passed. The bill to amend the one-third act by requiring the consent of one-sixth of the creditors in order to the discharge of an insolvent, was lost, and then, after a reconsideration, laid over. The bills passed, were that authorizing the incorporation of Juvenile Reformatory Asylums; that providing means for the support of Government, and that enabling the Supervisors of this County to purchase a site for a Court-house. The case of JAY GIBBONS was decided during the evening session, by his expulsion from the House. Ayes, 101; Noes, 8.

The Board of Education, last evening, continued the discussion of the report of the Committee on Teachers in favor of graduating the salaries of teachers in the public schools according to the attendance of pupils. The report was finally recommitted for modification.

After the disposition of a number of unimportant cases yesterday in the Court of Appeals, the celebrated Bounoffe case was taken up. It will be remembered that this case involves the effect of the French Concordat upon the subsequent claims of the parties to it, against the party relieved by the composition. At the Chambers of the Supreme Court, before Justice LEONARD, one ALFRED CLEGG, an alleged pickpocket, was discharged from custody. In the Oyer and Terminer, Judge INGRAHAM committed GEORGE MOUNTJOY to jail for contempt of Court, in refusing to answer as a witness before the Grand Jury, a question concerning the use of money in influencing the action of the Common Council. In the General Sessions, there were two or three light pleas and two trials—one for larceny, and one for receiving stolen goods. In both, the prisoners were acquitted.

The Stock Market was dull yesterday, and lower on the Railways by ¼@½ ℔ cent. Government Stock improved. Money easy. Exchange, 108@108½ ℔ cent.

The market opened briskly for Flour, Wheat and Corn; but, as the news by the America proved less favorable than had been anticipated, buyers partially withdrew, and prices, toward the close, tended downward. Cotton was in good request at firmer rates. Groceries exhibited rather more animation. Provisions, Whisky, Tobacco, Spices, Seeds, Fish, Oils, Naval Stores, Metals and Whalebone were sparingly sought after. A fair inquiry prevailed for Hay, Honey and Tallow. Freights were depressed, with 453 vessels of all classes in port.

At the Live-Stock markets, the supply of animals has been abundant for the past week. The receipts of beef cattle has not been up to the weekly average, but the demand has been quite limited, and sellers found it difficult to work off all their stock at yesterday's general weekly market, even at the low rates of the previous week. Beeves numbered 3,749, milch cows 147, veals 890, sheep 7,851, and swine 8,002, making a total of 20,639, or a larger number than for any previous week since the 1st of February. Cows, calves, sheep and hogs are all in excess of present requirements, and have declined in prices.

Free Trade of the South with Europe.

In our political imbroglio, the Englishman, like the heroine in the play, "perceives a divided duty." He is under great obligations to his moral convictions and training, but he is wedded to commerce and trade, and must follow these wherever they lead. We think none the less of him for the position he has taken, though apparently purchased at the expense of his moral sense. It was a great triumph of humanity when in State affairs, political and religious ideas and motives gave way to commercial—when the promotion of the material good of the people took the place of the advantage of the few who happened to wield power. England says she hates Slavery, but must sell to those that pay best, and extend a certain degree of sympathy to those who agree with her in her great essential—the promotion of her material welfare, no matter how much she may differ from them in moral or political ethics.

The Southern States have made a strong bid to stand well in the good graces of our venerable parent. They have taken great care to convey the idea that they are to inaugurate free trade in this Continent, and abrogate the exclusive system of coasting-trade, which, under the Federal Government, has hitherto prevailed. Late English papers greatly qualify their expressions of disgust at the morale of the new Confederacy, by their approbation of the commercial platform put forth. The London Times triumphantly tells its readers that English vessels may now with impunity engage in the coastwise business between Charleston and Galveston! We wish them joy of such an acquisition. But we would like to have the Times give us a manifest of this trade. The only one we ever heard of, between Charleston and Galveston, or between South Carolina and Texas, to the amount of a penny even, was in negroes. These, for many obvious reasons, would not be trusted in English bottoms outside of land. Charleston exports cotton. So does Galveston, but not to each other. We presume that the whole commerce between these States would not load a good-sized schooner once in five years.

The reference to these two ports—the coasting trade of which is thrown open to Englishmen—shows his habits of measuring values at a distance by size. He sees the long line of sea-coast of the Confederate States, and thinks it a fine thing to have a finger in this pie. He entirely overlooks the fact that between Southern ports—with a single inconsiderable exception—there is no commerce whatever. There is no trade between Georgia and South Carolina; none between this State and Florida of any value; none between the Southern Atlantic and Gulf States—for the very good reason that the exports of all being the same in kind, each one has a surplus of what the other produces. Between such no commerce can exist. Four articles comprise the products of nearly all the South—cotton, rice, lumber and naval stores. Louisiana adds some sugar, most of which goes up river. With this exception all the products go to England and the Free States. The direct trade between that country and the Confederate States was already opened to it. If the latter should open their coasting trade to the whole world it would not call for the addition of 1,000 tons to the English commercial marine. This nation would purchase their experience at a round rate, and would gladly beat an early retreat from waters which are fatal to health one-half of the year, and which offer no business for the balance of it.

There is an immense coasting trade between the Free and Slave States, because their products are totally diverse, but its enjoyment by foreigners depends upon the consent of our Government, which at the present is not likely to be conceded. When Englishmen come to realize that the great concession so much gloated over is not worth a penny, their conviction of the enormity of Slavery will return with all its wonted force.

So with the Southern Tariff. The Confederated States are acting under the Tariff of 1857, of the United States. What they may do in the future depends upon their exigencies. They cunningly abstain from any definite action till a favorable recognition is secured. They will then act as suits their necessities. A considerable party in these States are in favor of a tariff for protection. It is difficult to see how they are to get along without a high one for revenue. It is impossible to raise any considerable amount in any other manner. Under these circumstances, is not the wiser course for foreigners to wait and see not what the Confederated States may promise, but what they can perform? They are playing thus far simply a game of brag. Englishmen can see from the manner in which they have conducted towards the United States, what their word is worth. Their whole conduct has been one of the grossest spoliation and robbery. Such people are not over-scrupulous in their promises, nor in the performance of them, when made. Before taking them at their word, would it not be well to ask Mr. JEFFERSON DAVIS, the President of the new Confederacy, whether, before making new promises, he is prepared to make old ones good—whether he will now act as the champion of the bond-paying in his State, as he was a few years ago, that of the repudiaters, whom he led on to victory, scoffing at the crocodile tears of the British bondholders. When he turns honest man, then the Englishmen may put some trust in the promises of the Government over which he presides, but not till then.

In talking about this new prize, Englishmen forget to ask themselves in what this new trade is to consist. They must remember that Southern ports will be open to ourselves equally as to them. Can they send the Confederated States food? Can they equip a plantation with its implements of all kinds? or rather of any kind? Can they supply timber and its manufactures—hay, groceries, bagging, carriages, steam engines, castings, machinery, &c.? They cannot, for several reasons. They cannot adapt these to the uses they are to be put; or, if they could, they cannot compete with the North in their manufacture and transportation. Nine-tenths of all a people consume must be produced in the country where the exact nature of the wants can be understood and met. If the North are not to supply the South, a large portion of its labor will be withdrawn from the production of cotton to the ruder kinds of manufactures, reducing the production of cotton and the volume of our foreign trade in an equal degree. Foreigners can only be injured by attempting to occupy the relations of the Northern States to the South. The former alone can keep every negro in the field, and carry the foreign trade of their country to its highest pitch. When foreigners shall come to a correct appreciation of the wants of the South, and the only manner in which they can be supplied, they will gladly turn over to ourselves the adjustment of our own difficulties.

Physical Theory of the Presidency.

The telegraph tells us that President LINCOLN is sick. We do not doubt it. He has cause to be sick. It will be a miracle if, in six months, he is not either dead or dazed.

Mr. LINCOLN is evidently overtasking his powers. His views of the duty of a President are clearly Utopian. He believes sincerely that it is the right of every citizen to approach the President, and if he has a complaint, to make it; or a petition, to present it. And this right of the citizen involves the duty of the President to hear attentively and answer respectfully.

Mr. LINCOLN is now living, or trying to live, up to this honest but mistaken conception of the Presidency. He is breaking down under it, and must abandon it or die. Splitting rails is monotonous and heavy work, but an able-bodied man may survive it. Navigating a flat-boat on the turbid stream of the Mississippi River has its hazards, but what with a jolly dance at night when the boat is tied up to shore, or a quiet game of "seven up" when the waters are placid and the channel straight for a stretch of twenty miles or so, a man may make a score of voyages and remain a tough "sailor" at the end.

"Riding the Circuit" of a dozen immense Western counties to attend courts promotes health and longevity, and stumping the State against DOUGLAS may be unattended with harm, provided it be only in the field of debate that the capacities of the "Little Giant" are contested. In all these avocations ABRAHAM LINCOLN has acquitted himself with signal ability, and he may proudly claim to be a "representative American." He is equally a man of muscle and of mind. And his humble achievements as a man of labor, combined with his later triumphs as a man of thought, have given him the deep popular sympathy that made him President.

Mr. LINCOLN appreciates this fact; but he mistakes the duty imposed by his fame. His conceptions of his duty as President are radically wrong. He hears every complaint that comes up to Washington. He allows every petition to be presented to him. He endeavors to make himself acquainted with the merits of every contest for office that occurs, from Maine to California. His ambition is to see personally to it that the service of every man who helped to make him President receives its recompense, and that the gift shall be guaged by the clearly ascertained value of the service rendered.

Was ever so gigantic a task essayed? Was ever so impossible an achievement aimed at? No human brain will survive the persistent effort to accomplish such a work. Omniscience alone could master it. We can appreciate the earnest sense of duty that impels the President. And if the effort he is making were to result in nothing worse than his own sad disappointment, we might be silent. But when we see the rightful expectations of a great Republic in jeopardy, and the interests of millions of non-political citizens sacrificed to the impertinence of the office-seeking few, it is not only our right but our duty to protest. Mr. LINCOLN owes a higher duty to the country, to the world, to his own fame, than to fritter away the priceless opportunities of the Presidency in listening to the appeals of competing office-hunters, in whose eyes the loss of a thousand-dollar clerkship would be a catastrophe little inferior to the downfall of the Republic!

And is it to this "complexion" that American statesmanship has come at last? If the subject were not too grave for mirth, it would be the hugest comedy of the age. As it is, it deserves the satire of every pen, till the country is schooled to decency and wisdom.

Consider for a moment the perplexities of a President, and the confusion of all ideas of statesmanship that must arise, from the moment that "party service," and not personal merit, are the sole inducement of political appointments; and the still further involved corollary, that antecedent affiliations and distinct classes and nationalities are to be recognized, and to have awarded equal distributive shares of the official patronage that goes with the Presidency.

In the first place, a "distinguished citizen" that was anxious to be President, but failed to be nominated, makes a virtue of necessity, and supports the nominee. Magnanimous man! His State votes for the nominee. The defeated candidate for the nomination gets the éclât and credit. He carried his State! He must have a Cabinet office or a Foreign mission.

But Presidential candidates are numerous now-a-days. Every State has one or more. And it pays so well to be an unsuccessful candidate in National Conventions, that the number of candidates quadrennially increases. We will suppose a President elect has looked over the list of his late competitors, and made up his appointments for the Cabinet and for foreign Courts. He is pleased, and speaks of his determinations. Alack, but he has blundered! He finds to his consternation that twenty of his elect Ministers were Whigs some ten years ago, and only ten were Democrats in that by-gone time! Of course, reconstruction is inevitable, and many tantalized victims are put aside. A second time the work is completed, and perhaps the chosen favorites invited to Washington. Unhappy committal! Even-handed justice, it is true, is done as between ancient Whigs and Democrats, but it is discovered now that the "German element" has been entirely overlooked. Then comes a mighty uproar, and charges of ingratitude, and threats of vengeance, till the beleaguered President buys his peace by a third remodeling of his Ministerial programme.

Is he sure even now of being right and safe? By no means. The "Tariff" States want a Protectionist in the Cabinet, inasmuch as there is one Free-trader there. And the Southern States want a fair offset in the Cabinet to the men selected of Northern domicil. And the West is entitled now to balance the East. And finally the "ultra wing" of the President's supporters will never be content, unless they are as distinctly recognized and as highly honored as the "conservatives." And then, after every shade of opinion has been consulted, and every prejudice of party, living or dead, conciliated, the President will be happy if he do not find strife renewed at the last moment on the comparative heat or lukewarmness in the canvass, of the men he is proposing to honor.

When the names of the chosen chiefs of his administration are finally sent into the Senate, it is probably found by the unhappy President that he has not the first man about him that he originally desired to have, and no man goes abroad to represent his Government exactly where in his better judgment he would have sent him. He finds himself in the condition of the orphan who complained that he had been "married out of the family." First, his father died, and his mother married again. Then his mother died, and his step-father married again; and the poor boy having neither father nor mother at home was turned incontinently out of doors.

So the President becomes a stranger in his own Cabinet, and a novice in the midst of his own machinery.

But having got through with the initial difficulty of making up his Cabinet and selecting his foreign Ministers; and having become thoroughly bewildered by the conflicting "claims" of defeated rivals, and of influential delegates "that nominated him in the National Convention;"—after having balanced honors between old Whigs and Democrats, Protectionists and Free-traders, ultras and conservatives, the natives and the "German element," the North and the South, the East and the West, the zealous workers and the lukewarm, the President might rest. But no! He allows himself to be dragged into a rehearing of this Babel-like controversy over every smaller office in the gift of the Government, enlivened, entangled and superheated by the zeal, artfulness and falsity of multiplied, more vehement, and less responsible competitors. And Mr. LINCOLN, it would appear, accepts the programme. He means to hear them all, unravel all their individual stories, and "do justice" to their respective "claims." Did the world ever hear of such an amazing reach after impossibilities, and absurdities?

Is this the end and aim, the sum and substance, of American statesmanship? If so, then God help us. Let us quit—dissolve the Union—enter a mad-house—hang ourselves. Shall we survive this "great principle" for two terms longer of our Presidency? Consider a moment where it must land us. If the "German element" demands recognition, so does the "Bohemian." And if both, so does the flat-boat and rail-splitting "element." And if these, where are the other trades and pursuits that conspired so effectively in Mr. LINCOLN's election. Are the cordwainers to have no consulates? The tailors to "cabbage" no pap? The butchers to have no bureaus? The milkmen to have no missions? The proletaires no post-offices?

And if the old Whigs must not be forgotten, nor the Democrats slighted, nor the Union men left out in the cold, why not take equal care of Calvinists and Armenians, and divide justly between Jews and Gentiles? And then, poverty has its pitifulness, and wealth has its claims. Married men have families to support, and the single need encouragement to matrimony, which conserves the public morals and builds up the State. Are not all these various trades and creeds and tribes and classes, distinct and powerful "elements" in our Government that labored earnestly to elect Mr. LINCOLN? And will they not help just as heartily to elect his successors?

If American statesmanship is to consist in awarding exact pay to all men for their patriotic labors in the Presidential line, let the principle be carried out in all its fullness. For it is evident now that, with the best intentions in the world, of the most "able-bodied" President we have had for years, a cormorant few are wronging the fit and faithful million.

In the meantime, if revolutions impend—if commerce chokes in its channels—if business sickens and dies—if nations drift into conflict—if the shock of armies is felt, and the cries of an agonized people rend the heavens, it can at least be said that this Government took no part in the tragedy of Ages. It made "no terms"—no, neither of peace or war,—"with traitors." It did nothing but divide the spoils among the selfish and the faithful.

STANDARD OF HONOR AMONG BRITISH OFFICERS.—The United Service Gazette does the military body which it represents a very questionable service by its championship of Major YELVERTON. That officer stated under oath that from the time when he first met her as a Sister of Mercy at the hospitals in the Crimea, his sole object in his attentions and professions of love to Miss LONGWORTH had been to make her his mistress; and that, to accomplish this object he went through the form of a marriage ceremony twice, he believing it to be merely a sham, while he knew she believed it to be real and binding. The Gazette is very severe on one Major GAVIN, who, it says, "harked in with the ruthless hunting down of a brother-officer, by calling in the House of Commons on the Under-Secretary for War to dismiss him from the army;" and it is still more savage on the Authorities for having "so far succumbed to public clamor," as to suspend Major YELVERTON from military duty.

We should like to know from the Gazette whether such conduct as that of which Major YELVERTON confessed himself guilty, is considered becoming a British officer and an English gentleman? If it is, then he ought to be retained:—but it could only be at the expense of the reputation of the Service, in the eyes of every honorable man.

The Gazette dreads the precedent which Major YELVERTON's dismissal would establish, and thinks no officer should "cast a stone" at him who is not himself "without sin." It evidently believes that this rule would secure him complete impunity. So much the worse for the Service.

Spain and the Slave-Trade.

The debate on the Slave-trade in the British Parliament, on the 26th ultimo, in which the history of the efforts of England, France, Portugal and Holland to suppress it were reviewed, and the obstacles apparently opposed to those measures by Spain and the United States were exposed, has elicited a warm expression of remonstrance and indignation from the Spanish Cortes. We took occasion, at the time, to review that debate, with special reference to the exaggerated strictures of Lord JOHN RUSSELL on the obstructive attitude of this Government in the vexed question of Right of Search, as well as to the extended remarks of Lord PALMERSTON, which included certain severe but just animadversions upon the honor and responsibility of Spain. After alluding to "the mistaken but respectable sense of national honor which induced the American Government to suffer with impunity that prostitution of its flag which covers the abomination of the Slave-traffic," his lordship proceeded to denounce, in language as emphatic as that which Lord JOHN RUSSELL had just employed toward the United States, "the profligate, shameless, and disgraceful bad faith with which the Spanish nation have acted with reference to the treaties concluded with England on this subject. He as unhesitatingly charged Spain with dishonesty, in that she had received £400,000 from England in 1817, as indemnity to those who might suffer by her new compact with the British Government for the abolition of the Slave-trade; and with ingratitude, in that she had forgotten or disregarded the signal aid and protection that England had rendered her toward the establishment of a free Constitution in 1835—at which time she pledged herself to execute faithfully the terms of her old treaty, and by means of machinery mutually established, such as right of search, mixed commissions, &c., to assist in the suppression of the traffic. His lordship declared it extraordinary that a nation of men who, taken singly, would blush to do aught that could be construed unfavorably to their honor, should, when taken in the aggregate, be guilty of so shameless and abominable a violation of loyalty—such conduct, he did not hesitate to say, as would have afforded England just cause for war, if she had chosen to avail herself of it.

So damaging an assault from a statesman so eminently representative could not fail to stir the arrogant and irascible Spanish blood into angry demonstrations. Accordingly, we find his very pungent, though just remarks, the special topic of discussion in the Senate on the 9th inst. The Marquis de la Habana, Gen. CONCHA, who had lately the honor to be Captain-General of what Lord PALMERSTON styled "that centre of all abominations, the Island of Cuba," contended that Spain had honestly executed the treaty engagements referred to, as far as that was by circumstances practicable, for she had seen, he declared, too much of the disastrous effects resulting from indiscriminate emancipation in the English Colonies, at once to abolish Slavery in Cuba; inasmuch as the prosperity of 100,000 families depended upon it; besides, the Slave-trade yields the enormous profit of from 800 to 1,000 per cent. But he confidently affirmed that it was carried on, not by Spaniards but Americans, and concluded by recommending England to manifest her horror of Slavery by procuring its total abolition in the United States; he then called upon his own Government "to take such notice of Lord PALMERSTON's speech as should vindicate the honor of Spain." Here the reader will not fail to admire the illustrious assurance of the Marquis, who, as Governor of Cuba, complacently pocketed a doubloon a head from every slave cargo run upon the Island, and had the satisfaction of thereby promoting the briskness of the business to such an extent that many worthy people in New-York, as well as in Havana, waxed exceeding fat—and he himself was rewarded with a fortune adequate to the requirements of his new rank.

The President of the Council, O'DONNELL, repeated with much emphasis the assurance that the Spanish authorities in Cuba had done their utmost to put an end to the Slave-trade, and reminded Lord PALMERSTON that his Government had quite recently expressed their satisfaction with the vigor of the Spanish navy in this direction. He now assured them that Spain will religiously continue to fulfill her engagements for the suppression of the traffic, and to that end will send cruisers to the coast of Africa, which shall visit all vessels—not excepting those of England—that may appear suspicious. He petulantly attributed Lord PALMERSTON's injustice to his egotism, and chose to regard it as a bid for the applause of the House of Commons. He therefore looked, ostentatiously enough, for explanations, and expressed the hope that the amicable character of Spain's relations with England might not be gravely impaired.

But how are we, who have so paramount an interest in these protestations, to regard them, in view of the Spanish occupation of San Domingo, simultaneously announced, and notorious Spanish intrigues in the direction of Mexico? Are we to accept them in a Pickwickian sense merely, and admire the spectacle of a CONCHA's impudence pitted against a PALMERSTON's trenchant criticism? Or are we by an effort of imagination to regard them as ingenuous and genuine, and look, in the newly recovered health and wealth and strength of Spain, for aspirations of self-respect, and the pride that would rehabilitate itself in the company and consideration of just and treaty-honoring nations?

No such sentimental consideration is due to Spain from us. We too readily recall her later history, with its salient feature,—an unscrupulous aggression, bounded only by impaired strength, and a prestige and status lowered, if not lost, in the scale of nationalities. With this always in view, her present demonstration can but provoke a smile. Nor would it be worthy of even such passing remark as we have chosen to bestow upon it, but for the preposterous project it hints at, of cruisers to be sent to the Coast of Africa to search all suspected vessels, whatever their nationality—including, of course, those which the American flag has hitherto protected. In the prosecution of their most vigorous measures for the abolition of the Slave-trade, England and France have never been eager to tamper with a vessel which they had not a treaty right to search, conceded by the nation whose flag it sailed under; and the pretensions of Spain on this point are but the bombastic swagger of a second-rate power suddenly inflated.

If CONCHA and O'DONNELL truly speak for Spain, they have not said enough, and she owes to every Government in Europe the same explanation which she especially owes to the United States. If the infatuation that comes of sudden prosperity has beguiled her into the hallucination that this Republic, which has for so many years taught her her place, and kept her there, no longer exists, let her come to the Gulf of Mexico and find it. If she fancies that she can even yet defy the uncompromising policy which, as Lord JOHN RUSSELL frankly acknowledged, even England has never ventured to violate, let her begin the experiment, with unclean hands, on the Coast of Africa. A Spanish battery will serve to galvanize us into national life again as well as any other—if we are not dead indeed.

POLITICAL LAGER-BIER.—Our legislative telegram announced, last week, that a memorial had been presented by the "German Republican Central Committee" in favor of the repeal of the Sunday theatre and liquor laws. We were aware that the Chairman of the Committee, and some of its members, were connected with the liquor and lager traffic—as they have a right to be—and that the early meetings of the Committee were held on Sunday. At least one instance came to our knowledge of the expulsion of a member because of his avowed "Sabbatarian" views. But we were quite unaware that any part of the objects of the Committee embraced questions like that treated of in their memorial. Elastic as the Republican creed may be, none but Teutonic expounders would stretch it so as to cover Sunday tippling or beer-garden theatricals. We cannot but exclaim, Non tali auxilio.

The memorial itself needs no discussion. It is a very weak plea for Sunday license, on the pretext of excessive sympathy for the laboring classes. It assumes that the bottle and the theatre are indispensable to the "enjoyment" of the people on Sunday. It ignores the fact that the day of rest is a day of peculiar temptation, unless specially guarded from perversion. It recognizes no historic sanction for the American civil Sabbath extending through our colonial and national career. It overlooks the principal cause of the poverty and degradation of the classes for which it chiefly pleads, to be found in the very direction in which this memorial asks for additional license; and it seems not to have considered the fact that a vast body of Germans—mainly, we think, Republican Germans—have given expression to quite opposite views, while an overwhelming majority of the people of this State, of all nationalities and of all parties, repudiate such sentiments as are embodied in the beer-garden memorial.

On all legitimate political questions the voice of the German Republican Committee will have due influence. But, we submit that neither sound policy nor political consistency will be consulted by obtruding on the Legislature or the public the anti-Sunday notions of a sufficiently questionable interest; or by attempting to saddle the Republican Party with a monopoly of Sunday vice and crime, such as no party can carry and live.

THE THISTLE TO THE ALLIGATOR.—A ferocious Scot, yclept SMITH—JAMES SMITH, burgher of Glasgow—whose heart, as he declares, "yearns towards" the Fire-eaters of Mississippi, and sympathizes profoundly in their oppressions, generously sends to them these following presents, greeting, to wit: one six-pounder cannon, twenty-five rifles with sword-bayonets, fifty rounds of shot, twelve rounds of canister-shot and twelve canisters; and, not to do the handsome thing by halves, pays the freight on them across the sea.

Now, we would not for the world do aught to quench the fires of sympathetic patriotism which leap spontaneous from land to land, nor would we cast the shadow of a shade of doubt upon that fierce love of liberty which has made the rugged hills of Scotia glorious for twice a thousand years,—but, after all, wouldn't it be painful to learn that this canny cannoneer of the Clyde was also a shrewd speculator in the golden fleece of Mississippi, and that he might be playing a sharp game in behalf of his accompts with that repudiating Republic? 'Twould be, indeed, a horrid discovery, and too painful to chronicle. Glasgow, you see, after Manchester, is the heaviest cotton-consuming city in the world, and Mississippi, next to Alabama, is the largest cotton-producing State out of the Union. Now, were it but hinted that the fibres of the Mississippi staple, which stretch from thence across the Atlantic to the city of St. Mungo, might perhaps connect directly and deeply with the fibres of the "yearning heart" of the Glasgovite, we trust that no one would consider it a blow aimed at the further practice of the patriotic virtues by the burghers of that city. It would indeed be so exceedingly inappropriate to class this spontaneous force-will offering among tricks of the purely politico-economical type, that we will not do it. But, tight as is the money market at the present time, we will wager an eagle against a bawbee, that among the whole tribe of Caledonian Smiths, there is not anywhere a shrewder and more far-seeing cotton-bird than JAMES, of Glasgow.

HO! FOR THE ROAD!—We learn from our Southwestern Territory of Arizona—(if indeed the Robin Hood convention, which was to be held at Mesilla on the 16th ult., has kindly let it remain ours thus far)—that the good old times of the bowmen of Sherwood Forest are in full blast down there. The ancient salutation of "Stand and Deliver!" which erst rang cheerily through the lonesome woods of Old England, is now again heard resounding shrilly o'er the solitary plains of the great Southwest. Instead of the trusty bow of the days of yore, however, the bold highwaymen of Arizona use the most approved patent rifle, and instead of the Robin Hood plea of charity in excuse for their doings, they put in the statesmanlike apology of the "necessities of the State." These freebooters are known as "Secession Rangers," and sweep through Texas, up to the Messilla Valley, seeking whom and what they can find to devour. A band of such fellows it was who, at San Antonio, a week or two ago, seized the $30,000 which the United States had sent to pay off our gallant army, which has been for years defending the frontier against the Indian savages; or, as the San Antonio Herald vividly described it:

> "A formidable armed body of men, under the authority of the Commissioners, acting under the pressure of public necessity, on the Lord's day, entered the house where the money was, with a temerity worthy to be chronicled with the adventures of Gen. PUTNAM in the wolf's den, and brought out, without even getting their hair singed, $30,000."

In Arizona, however, they do not require the authority of "Commissioners," or anybody else,—only the authority of the bullet and the bowie-knife. The Confederate robbers rifle the United States mails, seize the forage at the stations, and plunder unfortunate travelers who still fancy they are under the ægis of the American eagle—all for the greate glory of Jeff. Davis, and in support of a needy public treasury. The very latest accounts from the Mesilla Valley, state that a company of these Secession Rangers were ravaging the country, plundering the supplies, &c., and that the mail conductor, "being intrusted with a considerable amount of money in transit, deemed it prudent to lie over till the Rangers had departed, lest the coin should be confiscated to the public benefit."

The Great Eastern Coming Again.—The English papers received by the Africa announce that the Directors of the Great Ship Company have determined upon dispatching the Great Eastern to New-York on the first of May ensuing. Capt. John Vine Hall, her commander on the first voyage, has been superceded by Capt. Carnegie, R. N., who is to be her future commander. Upon the death of Capt Harrison, Capt. Hall was selected as the commander of the great ship, on account of the reputation he had won in the service of the East India Mail Company, as commander of their steamers. He had distinguished himself on several important occasions by the exercise of superior skill and judgment under trying circumstances. Upon the successful conclusion of the first Atlantic trip of the monster ship, he was highly complimented, in connection with his associate officers, for his skillful management during the voyage. Joining in this testimonial was Capt. Carnegie, with four others, Captains of the Royal Navy, who were among the passengers.

What influences have led to the displacement of Capt. Hall we are not aware. It is well known that he had not the least responsibility for the stupid mismanagement of the ship's affairs during her stay in this City, though we think it not at all unlikely that he has been made the scape-goat for the sins of others. We doubt whether a better commander or a more courteous gentleman has been found to take his place.

FROM MARYLAND.

The Breckinridge Democracy—News from Virginia—Secession and the Government—Union Party—Judge Douglas, &c.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Baltimore, Tuesday, April 2, 1861.

The Breckinridge Democrats, here, profess to be quite sanguine that Virginia will yet declare herself for secession; and that such, likewise, will be the ultimate result in Maryland. The greatest efforts, regardless of their equity and morality, doubtless are and will be used to bring this about; but, as yet, the hopes of the Unionists remain unshaken, and letters from distinguished members of the Virginia Convention announce cheerful tidings, the carrier's feet being "beautiful upon the mountains."

One thing is to be said, however, in regard to disunion: Its advocates and agents possess a great advantage over their opponents; like experienced gamesters, they rely and are acting upon the strength of their whole game, which does not seem to be the case with the Government. The preservation of the Union, if fully recognized and cordially adopted by the latter and its adherents as their master principle of action, would, as an object, be in itself all powerful and eventually triumphant. Unless the policy of the Administration is made subservient to this one great principle as paramount to all sectional and party interests, it cannot arrest or even resist the revolution, which, in a greater or less degree, is now agitating the entire body of Slaveholding States.

So many circumstances have conspired to promote the objects of the Secessionists, that the head and front they have gained ought not to excite any special wonder. The weakness resulting from that provision of the Constitution by which four months are allowed to elapse between the election and inauguration of the President, has conduced immensely to their advantage. It operates as a sort of interregnum. It is a defect in the instrument which ought not to have escaped its framers, for danger might very well have been apprehended from it on the occurrence of turbulent times. It places within the power of a disappointed or mischievous out-going incumbent of the Executive chair, by either weakness or corruption, to hand over his successor, tied and fettered, a prisoner to his opponents. Had Mr. Buchanan availed himself of the warnings and advice contained in that peculiar but prophetic letter addressed to him by Gen. Scott, in October last, and taken measures to protect the national property and Government from the effects of factional and seditious outbreaks, is it supposable that the Southern States would occupy the position they now hold? Or, upon the result of the election being known, if Mr. Lincoln had immediately assumed the control of the Government? As it is, he came into office after treason had achieved position, and rebellion and revolution had been, in a great degree, consummated.

Major Anderson was commended for removing his forces from Fort Moultrie to the stronger post of Sumpter, and the lovers of order and supporters of good Government, in short, all loyal men, were gratified at the change. Why was this so? Was it that he might be held in a state of inactivity until his second position became as untenable as his first? As the matter has resulted, he might as well have remained at Moultrie. But his conduct, in taking possession of the stronger post, being approved, consistency required that authority should have been given him to maintain it as a commanding position; and every act of the Carolinians that tended to impair its strategic or military status, should have been regarded and treated as a levying of war against the United States. The same with Fort Pickens. A month ago, and Lieut. Slemmer commanded the harbor and commerce of Pensacola! Now, Bragg, and his newly-constructed works, command, or soon will, command him. Like figures on a chess board, the king moves from the black square to the white, and from the white to the black, while the knights, pawns and castles of the opponent take position until check-mate is inevitable. Mr. Lincoln cannot be blamed for this policy; it was initiated by his predecessor; it may result from an inherent weakness of the Government; but, if this system of tactics is the most potent within the scope of the latter's authority, wherefore keep the troops where they are? Why not withdraw them at once? Why war with thorns that have no dignity in them as weapons, and can only rankle as irritatives? Is further concession intended? If so, to be wise, it should be voluntary—it should be timely—and before those who are its objects have obtained a victory. The Government might as well resign its functions at once, as to admit that it has no power in the premises. The time, perhaps, has passed when either of these posts could wisely be reinforced. Such seems to be the general opinion here. The disease, which might have been readily cured, if taken in time, will now take time to cure. It may be better to "breathe the distemper by a wise delay, rather than attempt its correction by too rash an onset." To seek to depress, rather than to suppress it. When Moses, returning, discovered the moulten calf that had been set up by Aaron, he did not break it with a battle-ax, he reproved the false priest—he neither cut, hung nor drew the people; he sought to win them back to the law. This perhaps is the course dictated by prudence to those who would restore and preserve the Union. It not unfrequently happens that to temporize is better than to struggle. At the same time no one can help feeling the demoralizing effect of this course upon the nationality and loyalty of public sentiment. It is with Governments as with persons—to love them properly we must respect them. The attachment, otherwise, degenerates into weakness or sentimentality, loses its vigor, and, when the hour of trial comes, takes flight, like Cleopatra from Actium. The loyalist, therefore, the true lover of the Union, the citizen educated in respect for the Government over him, may well be excused for any misgivings they may entertain in regard to that patriotism which, avowing itself in favor of conciliation, is and has been all the while giving moral aid to revolution in the way in which a number of our fellow-citizens here and public journals are wont to do; professing love for the Republic, and at the same time treating secession as a foregone conclusion—parading before the public every sentiment and act that tends to extend it—blazoning its advantages, and darkening, so far as they can, in the eyes of the people, the blessings of the Union, and the ills that must wait on its disruption.

This sort of patriotism characterizes, with a few honorable exceptions, the entire Breckinridge Democracy of this State. It is disunion in disguise, and not the less dangerous because of its forced homage and its professed advocacy of reconstruction. The reconstruction that it seeks is of that political power in the South which it has lost in the country.

In the meantime the Unionists are not idle. The following is a copy of a call shown me yesterday, and stated to be in the hand-writing of Judge Douglas. Its design is not limited to Maryland:

"All who are opposed to secession and in favor of the restoration and preservation of the Union, by such amendments to the Constitution as will insure the domestic tranquillity, safety and equality of all the States, and thereby preserve the peace of the country and perpetuate the Union of the States, are requested to meet, &c." In lat. 35° long. 74° 09′, spoke ship Thomas B. Wales, of Boston, 74 days from Calcutta.

The intelligence from California is anticipated as usual by that received via Pony Express.

The Centinela has dates from Bogota to Feb. 18.

The First, Second, and Sixth Division and the second column of the Constitutional army were stationed at various points on the bank of the Magdalena, with the head-quarters at San Juan de Rioseco, where President Ospina and the Secretaries of State and War had arrived. The Revolutionary force was situated between Ambalama, Honda, and Méndes; the former had 7,000, the latter 3,000 men. The Centinela expects that the next mail will bring news of the triumph of the Government party. Mosquera is said to have made a demand for men and money on the States of Bolivar and Magdalena.

The Senate met on the 1st and completed its quorum on the 18th. The House of Representatives met on the same day, and opened with a constitutional quorum.

The Centinela persists in asserting that Gen. Bricено was victorious and not defeated at El Carmen, near Ocaña.

The steamer Columbus arrived at Panama on March 21, with later intelligence from Central America.

From the Republic of Guatemala there is no news of importance.

In Honduras, President Guardiola has been named Captain-General of the Republic and given full powers to settle the question between the civil and ecclesiastical authorities.

A rumor was current in Nicaragua that a party of 150 fillibusters had arrived at the Rio Grande, from New-Orleans. The report was not credited by the Government.

Sr. Don Julian Volio, Minister Plenipotentiary from Costa Rica, was in communication with the Government of Nicaragua; his mission being to effect a Union of the Central American States.

In Costa Rica everything was quiet.

Three vessels laden with coffee had sailed, two for Europe and one for California. The price had gone up to $13 a quintal.

FROM ECUADOR.

Proposed Transfer of the Country to France.

The Lima correspondent of the Panama Star and Herald writing on March 14, translates passages from three letters alleged to have been written last year by Garcia Moreno, the actual President of Ecuador, to Mr. Trinite, Chargé d'Affaires at Lima. They were made public by order of Gen. Franco. In the first letter, dated Quito, Dec. 7, there is the following passage:

"In my opinion, and I may even say, in the opinion of every order-loving man, the happiness of this country would depend upon its union with the French Empire, under conditions analogous with those which exist between Canada and Great Britain, excepting the differences which have to be introduced by the force of circumstances. Those of us who are tired of struggling against the licentiousness of the soldiery and the turbulence of the demagogues—those who work in vain to continue the anarchy which dishonors and impoverishes us, and who see advancing rapidly the devastating torrent of the Anglo-American race—we should find under the auspices of France the civilization, in the peace and liberty, in the order and blessings, which feeble and attenuated Spain could never make us enjoy."

In the third letter, written in French, badly, (perhaps purposely so,) translated in the Comercio, and dated Quito Dec. 21, we find the following:

"It is not the question 'either,' (translated in the Comercio 'not only') of a guarantee, which one is bound to say, the ambitious chiefs of these unhappy Republics have exacted so many times. It is 'not' (translated 'not only') a question of interest to the Government, of which I am a member, but to the interest of this country, which has just been delivered from the scourge of the eternal revolutions, by associating itself to a great Power of whose repose and civilization it could partake. It is also the interest of France, as she would become the mistress of this beautiful country, which would not be useless to her.

What I intend to do, and what I certainly will do, as soon as you give me the confidential assurance of the support of Her Majesty's Government, is the following: The 'Provisional Government of Quito will ask the people, if it will unite itself to the French Empire under the name which you please to indicate beforehand, and I am sure of the consent of the people, tired as it is of the calamities of the revolutions, and much as it hates to be dragged by force into dependence of the American Government. Meanwhile we will endeavor to gain time; but it would be better to act soon, and it would be a blessing for Ecuador, if you or the chief of the French Naval station, could take upon their responsibility the step I propose to take, that is, the assurance of not being abandoned."

Franco answers this piece of bombast, in which he says, amongst other absurdities:

"It is not unknown to you that Canada is an English colony, governed by rulers sent from England, and by local assemblies, the phantoms of musicipal powers, the decisions of which are restricted by the 'will of the Government of the metropolis.'"

FROM CALIFORNIA.

The Tedious Trip of those who left New-York on the Ariel, Feb. 1—No United States Senator Yet—Unaccountable Faith in Esmeralda—Cheerful News from the Mines—How Justice is Interpreted to the Apaches.

From Our Own Correspondent.

San Francisco, Monday, March 11, 1861.

The passengers who left New-York in the Ariel, on the 1st of February, got more ocean and tropical experience than they bargained for. Down to Panama they made good time, but when two days out from that port, on the Uncle Sam, the steamer's starboard wheel-shaft broke down. Still, with one wheel, the worthy craft managed to reach Acapulco on the morning of the 19th, only a day or two behind schedule time. There a thorough overhauling was [illegible] be safe to risk another week at sea. [illegible] is a pretty place to stop in for a day. Three [illegible] hours you can enjoy there seeing the naked [illegible] dive by the ship's side for the dimes you pitch overboard. Three more spent in rambling about the queer old town, buying fresh bananas, oranges, and sugar, dirt cheap, go off swimmingly. And then you are quite ready to move on; for it is mortal hot there. No breath of air can find access to the mountain-walled harbor, unless it comes winged with a hurricane. The sun beats down with fiercest energy through the day, and its slanting beams, with the Southern peaks for a fulcrum, lift up the very soul of languor from the lazy deep.

At Panama you have an open sea on one side, and, though the air along the horizon trembles perpetually with heat, an imagination not schooled out of the faith, that where there are large bodies of water there must be more or less of coolness, pumps in a sort of refreshment from the simple sight. But the harbor of Acapulco is so like a gigantic oven that you envy the strapping fellows who swim all day about the ship as incapable as ducks of drowning, and only worry for fear they will be parboiled. And yet it is proven that consuls can live at Acapulco, and women and children from the north on an emergency survive the baking, without finding their livers sensibly enlarged. So soon as our sweltering friends who left New-York in the Ariel were informed that the Uncle Sam could go no further, they knew they must wait for the arrival of the next steamer from the Isthmus. The week that elapsed before the California made her welcome appearance was, according to the count of an eye-witness, at least a Summer long. It was whiled away with dances, cards, novels interchanged, eating, sweating and hoping for the end to come. The place was healthy, board cost nothing on the steamer, and there was, at least, the consolation that here was a brave tropical experience obtained gratis. But the California looked shockingly little when she came. It was clear that if she had already anything like her complement of passengers, she could not take half of the Uncle Sam's on board. A Committee rowed off to see what she could do. Their report was that the California could make room for five ladies and fourteen gentlemen in the first cabin, for not a soul in the second cabin, but for as many males from the steerage as would agree to sleep on deck, and make no fuss about it. The list was then called, and in the order that they bought their tickets, they were allowed their choice to go or stay. Those who came up from San Francisco protest that there was no great growling on the part of the unfortunates who were left, but we expect quite a different story when they come up to tell it for themselves. All told, 125 were transferred from the steamer of the broken shafts to the little California, which then was badly crowded, with only a list of 433 on board. Head winds and heavy seas made the trip up the coast tough and dispiriting enough. The gun that announced their arrival here at 5 o'clock of Friday morning, the 8th, woke the whole town, which, for ten days past, had been in a fever of anxiety—it not having been discovered till the day preceding, even that the passengers that left here by the Uncle Sam on the 21st of January had arrived safely through to New-York. By next Sunday, we hope to welcome the women and children who have been roasting 20 days in Acapulco Harbor, and who now are 39 days out from your port.

While we were standing for our steamer mails, news came in by Pony that the exasperated Texans had seized the stock of the Overland Mail Company, and broken up the route. Nobody believed the story, which proved by the next Pony to have been substantially a hoax; but it did suffice to make us realize our isolation, and it evoked a good many involuntary curses on all who have any hand in postponing the great work of a trans-continental railroad.

We haven't got a Senator elected yet—don't make much headway toward one. Randolph, the best of the bunch talked of, is out of the ring, having been beaten in the Anti-Lecompton Caucus. He is in town, seriously sick yet. The Legislature met in Joint Convention on Saturday and balloted five times—then adjourned to this afternoon. The Republicans hung together—all but one (the most of all interested) voting for J. S. Phelps, who has a seat in the State Senate. On the fifth ballot the vote was as follows: McDougall, (Anti-Lecompton,) 25; Denver, 15; Nugent, (John, of the Herald lately, and for Douglas, when he saw that Douglas was ahead,) 16; Phelps, (Republican,) 21; Weller, (who "would vote for a gambler of 30 years standing, if regularly nominated," and now Mexican Minister,) 19; Creamer, (don't know who he is,) 7; Hoge, 2; Heacock, 1: and Bowie, 1. It is said by some, whose wish would never have fathered the thought, that at this writing Gen. McDougall has a better prospect than either of his competitors.

It looks now as if with returning Spring, the tide of adventurers would set strongly toward Esmeralda—the region lying some eighty miles S. S. E. of Carson City, along the boundary line of Utah and California, and in the Walker River basin. Last Fall it was always spoken of as in Utah, but as it fills with people, who dread a repetition of the anarchy of Washoe, the impression has so strengthened of its inclusion within the California limits, that our Legislature is loudly petitioned to erect a new county, to be called "Mono," which shall embrace all of Calaveras County that lies east of the Sierra Nevada, and snugly wrap within this coveted corner. It is now some six months since the prospectors cried "Eureka" over the silver-laden quartz lead that splits the porphyritic green stone of Esmeralda. It was too late in the season then to get much of the rock down to the distant reduction works, and Winter is no time for prosecuting investigations into the wealth or poverty of mines that lie 5,000 miles above the level of the sea, and within 25 miles of the base of the snowy Sierra. Still an unaccountable faith has swelled the population of the little town of Aurora from 200, as it was when Winter set in, to 800, as it is now while Winter still keeps guard over all the region. This vanguard of the restless army that is expected was housed in tents, or in cabins of turf or stone, but very rarely in houses of wood. The nearest standing woods fit for lumber are some twenty miles away, where a saw-mill will be running in less than a month. Meanwhile the Aurorans are rejoicing in the discovery of a plastic stone—just the thing for building material—an article which can be trimmed easily with hatchets when first unearthed, but which hardens into a tolerable sandstone in a few days. For fuel, the scrubby pitch-pine which covers a third of all the mining district, is well spoken of; and there is water enough; so that they are talking of building two considerable ditches already, whose routes have been surveyed and pronounced feasible. The writers from Esmeralda speak very cooly of the prospects, but tell large stories notwithstanding of the looks of the rock. In the Edward Everett lodge, they say the gold is almost everywhere visible in the decomposed quartz; that "large wages can be made by pounding the rock in a mortar, while the seams, worked only with the pick, yield over an ounce a day to the hand." The silver sulphurets lie deeper.

From the nearer mining districts the reports are uniformly favorable. You may think this is natural and to be expected so long as there are newspapers, grocers and whisky-dealers everywhere to be supported; but there is an instinct among miners that ferrets out humbug with surprising dispatch, and, knowing it, the local papers find it for their interest to aim at the truth, especially early in the season. So the stories from Keru River of the hands in Bradshaw's gulch turning out from $3 to $20 a day in rockers; of the men on the bars all making good wages; of the new and rich discoveries 40 miles north and 20 miles south of the Potosi mines, and of rich promise in the Northern mines generally, are to be believed, not up to the very letter perhaps, but in their spirit fully.

The Apaches, which is another name for the terror of Arizona, are fast learning what civilized justice is. Four Americans had been captured by them on the line of the Overland Mail route, and speared to death. When Lieut. Moore, with 70 United States Dragoons, arrived from Fort Breckinridge, at the Apache Pass, he found so much as the Coyotes had left of their bodies, which was little more than sufficed to identify them. Whether the Lieutenant's extraordinary proceedings, after he had decently buried the dead, is in accordance with the established policy of the Indian Department, I do not know, but this it was: He took the six braves whom he had captured, and whose only connection with the outrage was that they belonged to the same tribe, and hanged them, indulging the wife and a boy of one of the braves with a good position to see it all. The poor fellows, as they were about to be strung up, begged hard, not for their lives, but that they might be shot rather than hanged, and that citizens, not soldiers, might shoot them. The very fact of the request was held reason enough to deny it. A correspondent of the Bulletin, writing from Tucson, applauded this method of dealing with savages, and urges that the only way to prevent future trouble is to herd them on reservations, scrupulously shooting every one who leaves his allotted place. Making treaties with them he holds to be the supremest folly, as it is their policy, when anything of the sort is going on, to divide their forces into two apparently hostile gangs, that while one party is busy making the treaty, the other may pursue with all the greater success its stock-stealing.

The Congress of Sonora, at last advices, was favorably considering the Governor's recommendation of a grant of right of way through the State to the proposed railway connection between El Paso and Guaymas; and the Executive had given assurances that if there should be any repeal of the decree by virtue of which goods are conveyed from Guaymas to Arizona, such repeal should not take effect until after six months of publication. This assurance puts Arizonians in excellent spirits. GLAUCUS.

Railroad Accident near Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh, Wednesday, April 3.

The mail train, due from Philadelphia at 1 A. M., was thrown from the track near Wall's Station, about thirteen miles from this city, by the breaking of an axle. The forward car went down an embankment fifteen feet, the others running off the track. There were about eighty passengers in the train, only five of whom, viz: Mr. Dobbs, daguerreotypist, of Pittsburgh, E. [illegible], drover, of Holmes County, Ohio, J. [illegible], of Hollidaysburgh, J. [illegible], express agent, of Philadelphia, and one other, received slight injuries. They will be able to leave for their places of destination to-morrow.

The mails caught fire from the upsetting of a stove, the contents of several pouches being badly damaged or destroyed. The Washington letter mail escaped. The New-York and Philadelphia mails were slightly damaged, and the Baltimore and Harrisburgh mails considerably. The way mail between Pittsburgh and Harrisburgh was almost entirely destroyed.

Another Fugitive Slave Case at Chicago.

Chicago, Wednesday, April 3.

A colored man named Harris, with his wife and two children, were arrested here this morning on a warrant issued by United States Commissioner Corneau and sent by special train to Springfield, where they will be examined to-morrow. The man is claimed by Mr. Patterson, of St. Louis County, Mo., and the woman and children by Mr. Vail, of the same County, from whence they escaped. As it was almost entirely unknown that warrants were issued they were executed with little difficulty, but after the affair became known the most intense excitement prevailed among the colored portion of the community, and large numbers gathered at the dépôt at the time the regular morning train left, the crowd supposing the fugitives to be aboard. One or two shots were fired at the train. Beyond this there was no disturbance.

THE FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE OF THE NURSERY.

The following is an extract from a letter written by Rev. C. Z. Weiser, to the "German Reformed Messenger," at Chambersburgh, Penn.

A BENEFACTRESS.

"There is a woman in the public eye, whose name has all along been associated, in our mind, with the 'Yankee,' 'Quack,' and 'Humbug.' But it is so no longer, and we desire to wrest her name from all such suspicious association in all other minds. Whatever notions we may have of womanly delicacy and propriety, we will all admit that woman alone is the Nurse—the good Nurse—the BEST Nurse. Whether we shall have female physicians or not is a question which must be decided by time and principle, and not as a matter of taste. Pride, prejudice, caprice and custom may as well behave themselves, for if there is really a want there will also be a supply. If there be a 'calling,' there will be a 'coming.' Nature and Human Society are always self-supplying, and though Art and Fashion may hinder, they cannot prevent.

Mrs. Winslow [illegible] her remedies [illegible] as a messenger of health and happiness to your INFANTS in the cradle. Is there anything improper in that? A nurse of 'ten years'' experience can boldly say what is or is not good for a babe—and ought to be listened to. God speed her on her humble but happy mission. She is the most successful physician and most effectual benefactress our little one ever enjoyed—her doting parents not excepted. Just open the door for her, and Mrs. Winslow will prove the American Florence Nightingale of the nursery. Of this we are so sure, that we will teach our 'Susy' to say, 'A BLESSING ON MRS. WINSLOW,' for helping her to survive and escape the griping, collicking and teething siege. We confirm every word set forth in the Prospectus. It performs precisely what it professes to perform—every part of it, nothing less. Away with your 'Cordial,' 'Paregoric,' 'Drops,' 'Laudanum,' and every other narcotic, by which the babe is drugged into stupidity, and rendered dull and idiotic for life!

We have never seen Mrs. Winslow—know her only through the preparation of her 'SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING.' If we had the power, we would make her, as she is, a physical saviour to the Infant race."

HIGHLY IMPORTANT TO MOTHERS.—MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP is the only thing that you can rely upon to give rest to yourself, and relief and health to your infant.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been the means of restoring the drooping spirits in many mothers.

This is the season of the year to use MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP.

To every mother who has children suffering from any of the complaints incident to the period of teething, we say do not let your own prejudices, or the prejudices of others, stand in the way of the relief that will be sure—yes, absolutely sure—to follow the use of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP.

Druggists everywhere now keep MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP for children teething. No medicine in the United States sells like it. It is a standard medicine, and its fame world-wide. Physicians order and use it wherever its magical effects have been witnessed.

During the thirty years of unprecedented and increasing popularity of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP, innumerable "Cordials" and other nostrums, prepared by pretended M. D.'s, have sprung up and lived but a mushroom existence, while the SOOTHING SYRUP has been constantly increasing in popularity, and become a household word, and thousands of mothers thank Mrs. Winslow for the health of their children by the use of her invaluable article.

When the present race of "Cordials" have followed in the footsteps of their "illustrious predecessors," MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP will continue to be a popular favorite and a blessing to every mother.

None genuine unless the fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS, New-York, is on the outside wrapper.

Sold by Druggists throughout the world.

DR. WARD, NO. 483 BROADWAY, IS unapproached among the physicians in curing certain diseases. His Unfortunate's Friend and other great remedies accomplish an immediate cure. Shun an early grave. Read his Practical Treatise.

HUNDREDS OF THE UNFORTUNATE are disappointed of a cure by not calling on Dr. HUNTER at first. The Hunterian Dispensary, No. 2 Division-st., New-York City, established in 1834, for the Preservation of Human Life. PRIVATE CONSULTATION.—Dr. Hunter has for thirty years confined his attention to diseases of a certain class, in which he has treated not less than fifty thousand cases, without an instance of failure. His great remedy, HUNTER'S RED DROP, cures certain diseases when regular treatment and all other remedies fail; cures without dieting or restriction in the habits of the patient; cures without the disgusting or sickening effects of all other remedies; cures, in new cases, in less than six hours. It roots out the poisonous taint the blood is sure to absorb, unless this remedy is used. It is $1 a vial, and cannot be obtained genuine anywhere but at the old office, No. 3 Division-st. Book for nothing, that treats of the evil effects of early abuse and indulgence; is embellished with elaborate colored engravings, portraying every feature and phase of disease; exposes the fallacy of the ordinary modes adopted for the cure of local as well as hereditary maladies and gives the only safe and infallible remedy for expunging every trace of the virus from the system.

Count CAVOUR has been intrusted by the King with the formation of a new Cabinet.

TURIN, Thursday.

Her Opinione believes that the ministerial crisis will result in a modification and not in an entire change of the Ministry. Count CAVOUR will be intrusted with the formation of a new Ministry.

ASCOLI, Wednesday, March 20.

After a well sustained fire which lasted four days, Civitella del Tronto has surrendered to Gen. MEZZACOPE.

TURIN, Wednesday, March 20.

All the Ministry have tendered their resignations, which have been accepted by the King. Count CAVOUR, it is believed, will be intrusted with the formation of a new Cabinet, in which all the different divisions of Italy will be represented.

In to-day's sitting of the Chamber of Deputies, Count CAVOUR announced that the whole Ministry had tendered its resignation, and stated that he had advised the King to form a Ministry according to the new elements of the Kingdom. It was, he said, the intention of the Government to place the Council of Lieutenancy at Naples under the Central Government, which would be responsible for its acts. The Chamber of Deputies then adjourned until a new Ministry has been formed.

GREAT BRITAIN.

In the House of Lords, on the 21st ult., the Marquis of Normanby moved for the correspondence relative to recent events in the Ionian Islands.

The Duke of Newcastle explained the nature of these events. He said two members of the Ionian Assembly moved that the whole islands vote by universal suffrage on the question of annexation to Greece, and to unite themselves into one empire, for the purpose of expelling the Turks from Europe. The English Governor considered the proceedings unconstitutional, and called for the withdrawal of the motion which was refused, and he thereupon prorogued the Assembly for six months. The English Government approved of his course.

Similar explanations were given in the House of Commons.

Mr. C. FORTESCUE explained that the present convention between England and France respecting the Newfoundland fisheries, only regulated the machinery under existing treaties, and as it did not effect the rights of Newfoundland, it would not be laid before that Legislature.

In the House of Lords on the 22d ult., Lord WODEHOUSE said that he believed that the States of Holstein would reject the propositions of Denmark, but that war was not likely to take place before August.

Lord WODEHOUSE also explained the terms of the new convention with Mexico, by which certain customs duties are appropriated to the payment of British bondholders.

In the House of Commons, Lord JOHN RUSSELL promised to produce the correspondence with the American Government relative to the fugitive slave ANDERSON.

Lord W. GRAHAM asked whether explanations had been demanded from France relative to the assistance rendered by the French Minister in the escape of MIRAMON from Mexico.

Lord JOHN RUSSELL admitted that MIRAMON had violated international law, but said that in the absence of official dispatches, the French Government had not been applied to on the subject.

The Funds exhibited great dullness, but quotations are steady.

In the Discount market a good demand for money has existed since the reduction of the Bank minimum to 7 per cent. The terms for good bills were 6¾ to 7 per cent., with a fair but not pressing demand at the Bank.

Gold continued to flow into the Bank, and there were anticipations of a further reduction of the Bank minimum.

FRANCE.

The Bank of France on the 21st ult. reduced its rate of discount from 6 to 5 per cent.

In the Corps Legislatif, M. JULES FAVRE had moved his amendment to the address, requesting the withdrawal of the French troops from Rome. He strongly urged the necessity for such a proceeding, and asserted that the maintenance of the status would be impossible.

M. BILLAULT said that the French Government would neither sacrifice the Pope to the unity of Italy, nor the unity of Italy to the Pope. The aim of France was to reconcile the two interests. The combination proposed at Villa-Franca was the true solution, and it should be accepted as such. He alluded at length to the difficulties attending the question.

The amendment was then rejected by 246 to 5.

An amendment in favor of the temporal power of the Pope was offered, but subsequently withdrawn, Count DE MORNY urging the Legislature to leave the solution of the question to the Emperor.

The entire address was finally agreed to by a vote of 213 against 13.

The Paris Bourse, on the 22d, closed dull and lower—the Rentes were at 68f.15c.

So far from recalling the French troops in Rome, it was generally reported in Paris that 10,000 men were about to be sent out, nominally to reinforce the garrison there, but really to make a counter demonstration to that of Austria on the Po.

ITALY.

The new Ministry is not yet announced. Rumor gives the following combination:

COMMISSIONERS OF EMIGRATION.

STATISTICS OF EMIGRATION—THE CASE OF THE MARGARET EVANS—THE NEW LUNATIC ASYLUM.

At the regular weekly meeting of the Commissioners of Emigration, yesterday, the weekly report was presented, showing that 3,904 emigrants have arrived during the past week, of which, 2,065 came by steamer. There were 3,573 liable to bond and 331 not bondable.

Mr. CASSERLY, the Secretary, called the attention of the Board to the fact that the patients can be sent to Ward's Island cheaper by land than by steamer—going to One Hundred and Sixth-street in the wagons belonging to the Commission, and crossing the river at that point. The Commissioners of Charities and Corrections have established a steam ferry to their islands, but require so large a sum to land at Ward's Island that the Emigration Commissioners are not disposed to share in the enterprise. The land route will be mainly preferred hereafter.

The Superintendent of Ward's Island reported a number of cases of incipient lunacy arising from despondency and a desire to return home. After a conversational discussion it was decided to allow discretion to the doctors in the premises.

It was announced that the newly-fitted-up Hospital for Lunatics would be ready for the inspection of the Supervisors at any time. The following is the weekly statement:

No. of Emigrants arrived to March 27, 1861				6 811

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

TEACHERS' SALARIES.

The regular semi-monthly meeting of this Board was held last evening, President CURTIS in the Chair.

The School officers of the Fifteenth Ward were authorized by resolution to close School No. 35 for repairs to the building.

Some unimportant papers having been disposed of, the special order of the evening was taken up—being the report of the Committee on Teachers, relating to teachers' salaries. After some discussion the report was referred back to the Committee for modification. The plan adopted in the report of graduating the salaries of teachers according to the attendance of scholars, meets with much opposition in the Board, as well as outside, and there is little probability of the report being adopted without material alterations.

The report of the Finance Committee against paying the bill of Mr. Cusick ($26) for services as inspector in superintending the construction of the School-house in Oliver-street, gave rise to a lengthy discussion, which ended by the adoption of the report. Adjourned.

GENERAL CITY NEWS.

ANNIVERSARY OF THE MARINE TEMPERANCE SOCIETY.—The twenty-eighth anniversary of this Association, auxiliary to the New-York Port Society, was held at the Mariner's Church, Madison-street, Tuesday evening. Capt. EDWARD RICHARDSON, the President, occupied the chair, and a large audience was in attendance. In the absence of the Secretary, Capt. ELLIOT read the annual report, from which it appears that the Society now numbers 37,343 enrolled members, 8¢6 of whom have signed the pledge during the past year. The report states that during the twenty-eight years of the existence of the Society, it has proved, and is still proving, a valuable auxiliary to the New-York Port Society, and through its instrumentality thousands of seamen have been redeemed from a life of intemperance, and have become members of Christian churches. At the conclusion of the report the audience was addressed by Rev. C. W. DENNISON, Rev. CHAS. J. JONES, Rev. Mr. MCLAUGHLIN and Capt. ELLIOTT.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.—The proprietor of the store No. 339 Broadway, apprehending that his place would be visited by burglars on Tuesday night, accepted the services of a young man named ROBERT BEATTY, who volunteered to watch the premises. Yesterday morning, when Mr. BEATTY was preparing to leave the store, a loaded pistol, which he had with him for protection, fell from his coat pocket and was discharged. The ball entered his right breast and lodged in his shoulder, whence it has not yet been extracted. Mr. BEATTY was alone when the casualty happened, and was not found until several hours had elapsed. He was then removed to the New-York Hospital by the Fifth Ward Police. His wound is not considered dangerous.

ANOTHER TEMPESTUOUS VOYAGE.—The ship Devonshire, of the Black X line of packets, Captain ANDERSON, which sailed from London on the 16th of February last, arrived here on Friday evening, after a very stormy and severe passage of forty-one days. The first and second cabin and steerage passengers, previous to their landing, presented Captain ANDERSON with a vote of thanks for his kind and gentlemanly treatment towards them throughout the whole of the passage. Many of the passengers had crossed the Western ocean before, and they stated that it had never been their misfortune to experience such a succession of heavy gales, nor their good luck to be under the care of so skillful a commander.

FOUND DROWNED.—Coroner JACKMAN held an inquest, Tuesday, upon the body of JOSHUA ROSEVERE, a native of England, twenty years of age, who was found drowned in the dock foot of Dey-street, North River. Deceased had been missing since the 7th of February. A verdict of "Death by drowning" was rendered.

FATAL FALL.—Coroner JACKMAN held an inquest on Tuesday at the Eighth Ward Station-house upon the body of JOSEPH CURRY, a native of Ireland, 40 years of age, who was killed by a fall down a flight of stairs in a stable in the rear of No. 89 Mercer-street, where he was in the habit of sleeping. A verdict of accidental death was rendered.

CHURCH CONSECRATION.—The "Memorial Church of Rev. Henry Anthon, D. D.," situated in Forty-eighth street, between Sixth and Seventh avenues, will be consecrated this morning; services to commence at 11 o'clock. The sermon will be preached by Right Rev. Bishop EASTBURN, of Massachusetts.

LECTURE ON THE SANDWICH ISLANDS.—Mr. CHARLES DANA, for some time a resident at Honolulu, reads a paper on the Sandwich Islands this evening, before the Geographical Society, at their rooms in Clinton Hall.

DISCUSSION ON CAPITAL PUNISHMENT.—The capital punishment question will be discussed this evening at the Library Rooms, No. 3 Abingdon-square. The public is invited.

The Trade Sale of Books.

This periodical vendue, now in course at the spacious rooms of Messrs. GEO. A. LEAVITT & Co., Rue de Mercer, still progresses to the eminent satisfaction of all concerned, both buyers and sellers—the latter especially.

On Saturday, the third day of the sale, the publications of PETERSON & BRO., and JOHN WILEY, met with a favorable reception—DOWNING's agriculturisms and RUSKIN's opaque criticisms being greatly in demand. The main feature of the day, however, was the invoice of CROSBY, NICHOLS, and LEE, of Boston. This house is represented at the sale by the gentleman who comes last—and, nominally, Leest—in the "name and style." Much fun is poked at Mr. L—— by the bookmen, waggishly inclined, and because of an adventure which he himself relates. It seems that while in Paris, or some other place under absolute monarchial rule, he was quietly walking along the streets with a friend, when two gendarmes slipped alongside of him, and, linking arms in a persuasive way, insisted that he should accompany them. It was in vain that the Boston bookman remonstrated,—he was hurried away to the nearest guard-house and arraigned on a charge of Red Republicanism. It was not in the color of his hair nor his vestments, that the offence lay,—a soft felt hat which he wore was the head and front of his offending. After a brief incarceration he was liberated, but the hat he still wears as a token of the fashion in which the gendarmes got to the windward of LEE, and its appearance on the auctioneer's stand is invariably greeted with a round of applause. The hat fairly sold the invoice of books contributed by the firm. The fine editions of the standard English Poets met with especial favor, and were duplicated above the printed lines in a way that must have pleased the rustling ghosts of those old bards amazingly.

On Tuesday TICKNOR & FIELDS had quite a benefit. The poets whom they have so carefully packed in blue and gold were almost frightened from their covers by the enthusiasm which greeted them. TENNYSON, LONGFELLOW and WHITTIER seemed the favorites of the moment, and were duplicated again and again, while the same happy fate fell to the prose poems of HAWTHORNE and the jagged crudities of EMERSON. The illustrated edition of the Waverley Novels found duplicating friends, as well as the later and less classical productions of Capt. MAYNE REID.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. also have cause to congratulate themselves on the day's sale. BANCROFT's Historical Works brought full prices, and were largely duplicated, as also did their very fine edition of the British Essayists. But here, as before, the Poets seemed in greatest demand, and of their series of the British Poets, from CHAUCER down to WORDSWORTH, ten sets were sold, each set containing 115 volumes. Messrs. LITTLE, BROWN & Co.'s English reprints also sold well, but in their Encyclopædia Britannica another complete success awaited them. Five sets of this splendid work were sold in one lot to one buyer, and about five more miscellaneously. It will be remembered that "a set" consists of 21 volumes, and each of these a big quarto fellow that would break a boy's back to carry.

The invoice of APPLETON & Co. sold well, and the valuable educational books of BARNES & BURR had a flattering and well-merited reception. The sale closes with Thursday.

Easter Elections in the Episcopal Parishes.

On Monday and Tuesday the usual elections for Wardens and Vestrymen to serve during the current year were held in the Episcopal Parishes of our City. In some of the Churches there was a generous rivalry between the partisans of the different tickets. We give below lists of successful candidates in a number of the leading Parishes.

TRINITY CHURCH.

The interest in the Trinity Church elections was not unusual. The attendance at morning prayer was large, and many of the corporators were present. The Wardens nominated by the Committee of the Corporators were Cyrus Curtis, A. H. Livingston, Smith Cleft, J. J. Post, Lyman Cooke and R. L. Pell; but at an early hour the following notice appeared on the Church-door, which, it is believed, had the effect of drawing a number from the ticket in opposition to the old Vestry:

To the Corporators of Trinity Church:

We have been placed in nomination for Wardens without our knowledge or consent; and we have addressed the Chairman of the Committee of Corporators, that we cannot consent to be placed in opposition to the present Wardens.

CYRUS CURTIS.
2d April, 1861. JOHN H. SWIFT.

The polls were closed at about 2 o'clock, and soon afterward the following result was announced:

Whole number of votes cast	249
For the old Vestry	206
For the pure opposition ticket	13
Mixed and other tickets	30

The following are the names of the Wardens and Vestrymen elected. They are the same as were elected last year:

Meeting of the New-York Polytechnic Association.

This Association met last night at their rooms in the Cooper Institute. During the temporary absence of the President, Prof. MASON, the Chair was occupied by Mr. J. P. VEEDER. The Professor subsequently arrived, and assumed his post. Mr. J. T. SEELY presented a model of a new water-wheel for grist mills, factories, &c., which would, as alleged, cost much less than the wheels now in use, while it would perform much more work. No action was taken thereupon. Mr. C. A. SEELY made some remarks on the use of Kerosene oil and other burning fluids, which elicited some discussion respecting their tendency to explosion. The main topic of the evening was "Iron-clad Ships," which was introduced, in continuation of the same subject, left unfinished at the last meeting, by Mr. DIBBIN. He claimed that Mr. R. L. STEVENS, of Hoboken, was their originator, and instanced, what he admitted was a "nondescript," the mysterious battery not yet finished, in that, or rather under that, desirable locality in New-Jersey. He proceeded to describe the "nondescript," but did not do much to clear up the obscurity which will probably for a long time to come envelop the work which has cost the Government so much money, and of which the present generation, in all probability, will not see the benefit. In Mr. DIBBIN's opinion an iron-plated ship would be far less useful in warfare than a ship built of wood, for the reason intimated by Mr. STETSON at the last meeting, namely, that the shot striking it would tear away so much of the surrounding iron work, that ten times the damage would be done which would accrue to a wooden vessel. The question to which the attention of the meeting was thence directed was the comparative invulnerability of a series of iron plates riveted together, and of a solid plate of iron of the same thickness. Wrought iron, it was claimed on one side, could not be shattered by a projectile made of cast-iron, while the contestants, on the other hand, argued that it could. Mr. STETSON and others continued the argument. Capt BARTLETT, U. S. N., spoke at length on the subject of resistance to projectiles, and exhibited several specimens of shells to be thrown from cannon. Iron-clad ships, in his opinion, might be used in harbors, for defensive positions, but would not be available for general naval warfare. The subject, at the adjournment of the meeting, was held to be still under discussion.

School for Deaf Mutes.

At a meeting of the Managers of the Home for Young Deaf Mutes, held at the Home, situated corner of Sixty-second-street and Tenth-avenue, on Monday, March 25, 1860, Rev. Mr. CAMP was authorized to collect money in aid of the above Society. The ladies felt that the following letter from the Principal of the New-York State School speaks for itself, and we sincerely hope that all will respond to the call for help for these poor children of silence.

INSTITUTION FOR THE DEAF AND DUMB,
NEW-YORK, Oct. 8, 1860.

This may certify that I have become acquainted with the history, organization and object of the Home for Juvenile Deaf Mutes, situated on the Tenth-avenue and Sixty-second-street, established by an association of ladies, and placed under the immediate supervision of Mrs. DEVOE; and I take pleasure in saying, that it is an establishment worthy of the countenance and support of the benevolent and humane.

Its object is to preserve from danger and the influence of evil example, in the streets, the deaf and dumb children of the destitute poor, until they reach the age authorized by law for admission into the Institution as State pupils, where they can be placed upon a systematic course of instruction, and trained up for the duties of life.

So far, therefore, as this object is carried out, it cannot fail to commend itself to the judgment of the philanthropist and the Christian.

HARVEY P. PEET, Principal.

BROOKLYN NEWS.

KINGS COUNTY BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.—An adjourned meeting of this body was held in the County Jail yesterday, Supervisor CROWELL, President, in the Chair. The Committee on Accounts, to whom was referred the bill of JONES & Co., for $1,100, for rebinding books in the Register's Office, reported that the work had been very imperfectly done, and competent judges estimated the value of what had been done at $800, which amount was ordered paid. An application was made by the officers of the Home for Deaf Young Mutes for an appropriation. The officers say that children under 12 years of age are not admitted into the State institution, and the object of this Society is to provide for them. The clerk was directed to notify the applicants that the Board of Supervisors has no authority to make the appropriation called for. Mr. COIT, Chairman of the Committee on Court-house, presented a contract for the purchase of the Schenck property in Fulton and Joralemon streets, as a site for a Court-house, for $70,000, with a resolution authorizing the County Treasurer to issue bonds to the amount of $100,000 to meet the same and incidental expenses; and that the Committee be authorized to offer premiums for plans for the new Court-house, viz.: $250 for the best, $125 for the second best, $75 for the third best, and $50 for the fourth. The whole subject was laid over until the next meeting. The Board, after the transaction of some routine business, adjourned.

COMMON COUNCIL.—A meeting of this body was held last evening, President KALBFLEISCH, Mayor elect, in the chair. The principal business transacted was attending to the wants of the Fire Department New apparatus was given to Hose Companies Nos. 9 and 3, and Hook and Ladder Company No. 2, and a new house to Hook and Ladder No. 5. Engine Company No. 12 got $300 voted for repairs; Hose Company No. 6, $250; Hose Company No. 4, $300; Hose Company No. 10, $120, and several other companies received smaller sums for similar purposes, and an office for the Chief Engineer was ordered to be fitted up in the City Hall, and another for him in Fireman's Hall. The Fire Department Committee presented an ordinance relative to steam fire-engines, which was adopted. It provides that each engine shall be designated by the original name and number of the company having charge of it; that 70 men shall be the complement of first-class and 60 men for second-class engines; each company to nominate (subject to the approval of the Common Council) a Chief Engineer, whose salary is fixed at $800 per annum. The Board adjourned for one week.

African Blood in Virginia.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I observe in the TIMES of this morning that you are under the impression that all persons in the South having any proportion, however small, of African blood in their veins, are held to servitude.

So far as the State of Virginia is concerned this is a mistake, which I take it for granted you will be glad to correct in your widely circulated journal. In Virginia, where there is only one-eighth of African blood and seven-eighths of white blood, the law declares such a person to be a free white,—and the white column is every year augmented by such persons passing into it. Whether this be law in other Southern States, I am not advised, but it is Virginia law, of which you may satisfy yourself by an examination of the Revised Code of 1849.

Respectfully, your obedient servant.

A VIRGINIAN.

HOW TO RISE IN THE WORLD.—Young men should be temperate, active, courteous, prompt, careful, persevering, honorable, honest, respectful, generous, and should thoroughly "Know Themselves." Phrenology teaches self-knowledge, and with it all the Christian graces, together with the modus operandi of rising in the world.

Hon. HORACE MANN says: "I look upon Phrenology as the guide to Philosophy and the handmaid of Christianity. Whoever disseminates true Phrenology is a public benefactor."

Rev. HENRY WARD BEECHER says: "If a man wishes to know practically what he is made up of; if a man wishes a knowledge of human nature for definite practical purposes, there is no system which will aid him in acquiring that knowledge like the system of Phrenology." Practical instructions, with written descriptions of character, given daily by

WHAT THE NATION WANTS.—What the nation wants is confidence. If people would agree to put a good face on the matter all would go well, and for this purpose gentlemen ought to get their Spring Hats of KNOX, No. 212 Broadway, corner of Fulton-street, for his chapeaux have so becoming and stylish a set, a beauty and neatness of finish, and a symmetry of form that impart an air of cheerfulness to the most melancholy. Men may secede even from their wives, but those who have once worn KNOX's Hats never dissolve the union of economy and elegance by wearing others.

At 5 P. M. of the 27th February, the east end of Little Inagua bore N. N. E. four miles distant. At 8 o'clock, P. M. the weather became showery, the course being then S. E. ¾ S and changed at 11 P. M. to N. by E.; the weather at midnight became cloudy and continued so until 2½ o'clock A. M., when she struck on Malasso Key, southeast of West Caicos; the boats were hove out and a stream anchor carried out in order to haul her off the rock, but all exertion to get her off was without effect. They then sounded the pumps and found three feet of water in her hold, and portions of her keel floating alongside, when she was abandoned. Capt. White and crew came passengers in brig James French.
